Seattle Yawl First Tourist Craft Of Season

The 50-foot yawl Uwhilna of Seattle opened Victoria's "little ship" tourist season Thursday when she moved at the landing stage in Inner Harbor. Her owners,

Canada Protests To Egypt; Wafd In 'National Front'

Sharp Note On Killing

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 (CP).—Canada has protested formally to the Egyptian government over the killing of J. M. Boyer, Canadian trade commissioner in Cairo, during Saturday's rioting there.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said at a press conference today the protest was delivered this week to the Egyptian foreign minister by the British ambassador in Cairo.

Mr. Pearson said the Egyptian government was informed Canada holds it "fully responsible" for the loss of Canadian life and property and reserves all rights in the matter, such as that of seeking possible compensation.

Further, the Canadian government asked that all necessary measures be taken to maintain order in the future and said it will hold the Egyptian government responsible for any further incidents involving Canadians.

The British official presented the protest Monday on Canadian behalf, since this country had no diplomatic representation in Egypt. He made the same representations on behalf of his own government. Several British casualties were involved.

Mr. Pearson said information received from Cairo was that Mr. Boyer was attacked when he mob set the torch to the fashionable turf club while he was lunching there Saturday.

He was last seen alive at a third-floor window of the blazing building, from which a few other persons had jumped. The trade commissioner had a bad head wound and fell back into the room, either from the effects of the wound or from smoke. His body was found hours later.

C. E. Butterworth, assistant trade commissioner, was on his way to the club for lunch when he was warned of the rioting. He escaped.

R.A.F. PATROLS SUEZ AREA

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Feb. 1 (Reuters).—Three R.A.F. squadrons have arrived in the Suez Canal Zone to bolster British strength, a military spokesman said.

The spokesman added that daily reconnaissance over the troubled Canal Zone is being maintained.

Aid To Europe Defense To Be Given Boost

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 (CP).—Canada's defense effort, including her aid to Europe, will be boosted during the next fiscal year, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He indicated at a press conference that, at N.A.T.O.'s suggestion, Canada has accepted one or two adjustments in her defense program but has discouraged suggestions that Canada should donate raw materials to Europe.

Sparingly, cautiously with reporters over just what more Canada has been asked to do in Europe, Mr. Pearson said:

1. Canada will do more next year—starting April 1—in defense than she did this year, and that statement embraces the effort to set the torch to the fashionable turf club while he was lunching there Saturday.

2. One or two adjustments in the defense program will boost expenditures. (These are reported to include a speed-up in preparations to field ground and air formations in event of war.)

3. Canada's aid to Europe next year may reach a considerable figure, including "many millions of dollars" for infrastructure costs, that is for airfields, communications and the like. In the last two fiscal years, but mainly since the fall of 1950, Canadian aid has totaled $325,000,000.

4. It has been suggested by N.A.T.O.'s committee of "three wise men"—named to study how the whole western defense effort could be nourished—that Canada send free raw materials to Europe. Canada "thinks that is an undesirable principle."

Assassination Story Denied

CAIRO, Feb. 1 (AP).—An official statement denying reports of the assassination of Nazam Bey Koudsi, former prime minister of Syria, has been issued in Damascus, the Arab News Agency reported today.

Negotiations May Resume

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 1 (Reuters).—Premier Aly Maher Pasha today was reported preparing for negotiations with Britain—the first since Egypt tore up the Anglo-Egyptian treaty which allows British troops to guard the Suez Canal Zone.

He has told foreign ministry officials to draw up a comprehensive note on past negotiations. At the same time he is maintaining contact with the powers who proposed a Middle East defense pact—the United States, Britain, France and Turkey—to safeguard the canal.

But Ibrahim Farag Pasha, one of the Wafd party nominees for the "National Front" which the premier is forming, told reporters "to my knowledge and belief the front is not meant to undertake negotiations."

And the Wafdist newspaper Al Misri said the Wafd has joined on condition that the front does not take part in Anglo-Egyptian negotiations.

King Farouk—who fired Wafdist Premier Nahas Pasha Sunday—is expected to issue a decree constituting the front this week-end. The Wafd decision to join was announced last night.

Barbara Ann, Sonja Henie Said Feuding

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (CP).—Life magazine makes Barbara Ann Scott its cover girl in the current issue and says "the hottest feud ever to strike the refrigerated world of ice extravaganzas is being waged this year" by Canada's ice star and the seasoned Sonja Henie.

Miss Scott, appearing in Arthur Wirtz's Hollywood Ice Revue at Madison Square Garden in New York, was signed up after Miss Henie had a falling out with Wirtz. Miss Henie is touring with her own troupe.

Life says: "There is little doubt that the 23-year-old Barbara Ann... has a more fetching figure than the 39-year-old Sonja, or that she could beat Sonja hands down in an Olympic contest today."

Police court fines reached a record total last year, according to a news item. Who says crime don't pay?

We couldn't a' picked an Olympic coach who'll better live up to the Olympic spirit than Bruce Humber.

City's gonna charge the municipalities more fer usin' the jail. Aw, who wants t' stay there anyway?

400 AFRICAN CHIEFS GREET ROYAL COUPLE

Princess, Duke, Plan Week's Rest

NAIROBI, Kenya, Feb. 1 (CP).—Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh stepped into the blazing African sunshine today, right into a Royal welcome from 400 African chiefs resplendent in bright robes and leopard skins.

Brass and silver arm bangles jingled as the towering chiefs leaped in the tribal welcome gesture. Lion headdresses nodded in time.

The four-engined Canadair North Star airplane which brought the Royal pair from London touched down at 10:12 a.m. at Eastleigh Airfield, Nairobi. Governor Sir Philip E. Mitchell, in white uniform, stepped forward as the visitors climbed from the blue and silver British Overseas Airways craft which brought them from London.

Now comes a week's rest in this British colony of rolling plains, snow-capped hills and great herds of African livestock. Then the couple set off for the rigors of a five-month tour which will take them to Australia and New Zealand.

Chiefs of the Turkana and Suk tribes from Kenya's northern territories, with their leopard skins and high white and black plumed headdresses, had trekked 500 miles to cheer the Princess.

Quebec Ready To Test Guns

Shake-down runs and working-up exercises of H.M.C.S. Quebec have reached a point where she is now ready to test her six-inch guns.

Tests will take place from Monday through Friday next week. Marines are warned away from the Gulf of Georgia gun practice area, which has the following boundaries:

North, a line 2 miles south of, and parallel to, the shore of Vancouver Island; south, the international boundary; East, 123 deg. 32 min. west longitude; west, 124 deg. 10 min. west longitude.

Firing practice will be carried out from 9 in the morning to 4 in the afternoon daily.

GRANITE FALLS, Wash., Feb. 1 (AP).—Ground parties headed into the rugged Mt. Pilchuck region early today to bring out the body of a Canadian student pilot who died in the crash of a light private plane.

Flight Instructor Harry W. O'Reilly, 33, Vancouver, B.C., survived the crash which he said occurred when the student, Jack Welsh, "froze" at the controls.

The plane had been missing since Wednesday night on a practice flight from Vancouver. O'Reilly said the plane hung in a tree about 30 feet from the ground. He stayed in it overnight before hiking out for help.

O'Reilly told authorities that he and Welsh, a World War II pilot who was taking a refresher course, became lost in the mountainous region east of here.

"We hit a turbulent area which buffeted the plane so much Welsh froze at the controls. Try as I could, I could not wrench the controls free and it piled up," O'Reilly said.

LITTLE AFRICAN PAGE AWED BY ROYAL PAIR

NAIROBI, Kenya, Feb. 1 (AP).—A three-year-old African boy bashfully turned his back on Princess Elizabeth today and grabbed the spotlight at this British East African colony's welcome to its future ruler.

The child—named Prince because he was born the same day as Elizabeth's son Prince Charles—was delegated to hand her a bouquet when she visited the new African maternity hospital soon after her airport arrival with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, on the first leg of their five-month Commonwealth tour.

Wide-eyed and solemn in white shirt and short blue trousers, Prince turned his back on the Princess and shyly backhanded the flowers.

Elizabeth gently pulled him around and took the bouquet, to the delight of the large crowd of Africans.

A'S BASEBALL FUND STANDS AT $14,000

Deal With Concessionaire Could Assure Continuance Of Pro Ball Franchise Here

The fate of professional baseball in Victoria today hung on the terse announcement from a club official "we will be represented at the Western International League meeting in Seattle Saturday."

This comment plus the fact of known negotiations which, if successful, would definitely mean the continuance of baseball, was the only official word that could be gleaned concerning the status of the Athletics.

Although club officials remained silent on the aspect of today's meeting, it is known that an offer has been made for concession privileges at Athletic Park in return for financial assistance.

An announcement on the outcome of the meeting is expected later today.

Failure to reach a satisfactory agreement could mean that, at best, the A's would be prepared to lease an estimated $20,000 on the table before the W.I.L. directors Saturday.

However, a representative of a large United States concession firm said Thursday night he believed his organization could help keep baseball here. He refused to elaborate.

Decision as to who would represent the A's at Saturday's league meeting had not been made by press time.

Meanwhile Booster Club booths will remain open.

The unofficial total raised towards the $20,000 minimum and $35,000 objective has been estimated at better than $14,000.

Reason for the problematical aspect of the figure is that canvassers of a special names list have not yet reported in. However, all were due to report on the success or failure of their efforts tonight.

High point in the drive was reached on the CKDA-radio jamboeree Thursday night when the public spilled over $3,000 into the coffers.

This brought the Booster Club total to over $12,000 with contributions today nudging the $14,000 mark at press time.

It is known that certain of the canvassers have been successful to the extent of approximately $1,500 or better, but as the majority are yet to be heard from, it is impossible to arrive at a definite figure.

Marketing Act Decision Not Effective Here

CHARLOTTETOWN, Feb. 1 (CP).—The Prince Edward Island supreme court brought down a ruling Thursday, believed to have far-reaching significance to agricultural marketing throughout Canada.

Sitting on a test case brought by the island potato marketing board, the court declared the Federal Agricultural Products Marketing Act of 1949 ultra vires.

The board was set up under the act and had sought to license and had sought to license and dealers make levies, and establish minimum prices and regulate consignment sales outside the province.

The court held that the board, being a provincial organization and not responsible to the Federal government, could not receive delegated powers from the Federal government.

OFFICIALS HOPEFUL

B.C. department of agriculture officials were hopeful today that the Prince Edward Island Supreme Court decision would not affect B.C. marketing practices.

Deputy Minister W. H. Robertson said the Natural Products Marketing Act, under the three B.C. marketing boards function, was passed in 1934 and that its legality was established in 1938, when it and the federal marketing act then in effect were taken to the Privy Council in London.

There's price relief in sight for the Canadian consumer.

Pressure on prices, sparked by panic buying and heavy stocking at the beginning of Canada's three-year $5,000,000,000 defense program, has eased. And there's been a noticeable cutback in production.

Government statisticians gave an indication of the trend in the January issue of the Canadian Statistical Review.

"The recent period," says the Review, "has been one of internal adjustment, with prices and production showing a tendency to level off."

"Prices which a year ago were rising sharply, partly due to forces of a speculative nature, have recently shown less tendency to increase. Inventories have also shown a levelling off after large increases in the first three quarters of 1951."

FULLY EMPLOYED

But while some business men are cutting down on their stock buying and thus easing pressure on the demands for certain goods, workers are still almost fully employed.

"Employment from incomes," added the Review, "have been rising continuously. Salaries, wages and supplementary labor income for the first 10 months of 1951 were 17 per cent above the same period of 1950."

Retail sales have not maintained the rate of increase recorded earlier in the year, nevertheless the 11 months of 1951 they were 11 per cent above the same period of 1950, in value terms.

This trend in easing up of pressure on prices showed up in the

Legislation Provides For $63,000,000 Cut

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill's government introduced legislation today to slash the cost of Britain's socialized medicine scheme by £21,000,000 a year.

By sharply modifying the "free" provisions of the service, that amount now will be paid by patients.

Without these reductions, cost of the program would amount to £21,000,000 of the £400,000,000 ceiling which both the old Labor government and the new Conservative cabinet have agreed must be kept.

The health service cuts form part of the sweeping government economies and restrictions on imports and consumption which Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler has outlined to Parliament. Butler's aim is to prevent national bankruptcy and put the pound back on its feet in relation to the dollar.

Health Minister Harry Crookshank introduced the bill in the Commons. It will come up next week for second reading—the one that usually determines the fate of legislation. The Conservatives, with a majority of 14, are expected to push it through in the face of stern Labor opposition.

WILL INCLUDE EVERYTHING

The bill seeks to impose a charge up to £1 for a course of dental treatment. This will include everything the dentist at his first inspection says should be done. Thus the charge often will cover several visits. This provision is expected to save £7,500,000 a year.

A shilling charge will be imposed for drugs supplied through hospital out-patient departments. This will save £500,000.

Old legislation adopted under the Labor government allowed a one-shilling charge on prescriptions. The Labor never imposed this provision but Churchill's cabinet will. Another £12,000,000 will be accommodations with a degree of privacy.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 1 (Reuters).—President Juan Peron today threatened to nearly double the price Britain pays for Argentine meat after the current contract expires April 22.

The new price, he said, would be £250 a ton.

The statement was Peron's opening gun prior to Anglo-Argentine talks later this month on terms for the next contract.

"When the British came to buy meat," he said, "they did not want to pay our price. The negotiator who came here said we could not go on much longer without selling."

"We will see," I replied. "You have hunger and we have meat and we will see who can last the longer."

"They did not want to pay £90 per ton but they ended up paying £150 and next time they will have to pay £250," he said.

Price Relief Sighted For Canadian Consumers

12 Arrests In Quebec Election

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (CP).—Steps were being taken today to bring to the attention of the provincial attorney-general, Premier Duplessis, the arrest here of Pacific Plante, former deputy director of the Montreal police department.

Plante's legal advisor, Guy Desjardins, said his client was being held "incommunicado" following his arrest with 11 election workers during the heat of a municipal election in suburban Ville St. Michel.

In Quebec, Premier Duplessis at his weekly press conference showed surprise when informed of Mr. Plante's arrest. He declined comment.

Desjardins said the police in Ville St. Michel refused to admit Plante's lawyer or inform him of the charges against the dismissed former police officer. He said a writ of habeas corpus was being sought to obtain Plante's release.

Mayor Charles Lafontaine, member of the Montreal city council seeking re-election in the municipality, confirmed that Plante was arrested.

He said Plante was picked up with three men—A. McGarr, Mike Shaffey, and another identified only as Duhamel—and charged will be determined later by the town's legal counsel.

Seaway Plan A Must—Howe

The St. Lawrence Seaway project will be completed as an all-Canadian construction job if the United States does not want to step forward by April, Canadian Trade Minister C. D. Howe said here Thursday night.

"It has been apparent in recent years that the possibility of United States help has dwindled yearly," the trade minister told a political gathering here.

Howe termed the vast project "essential" to the Canadian economy for the movement of wheat from the prairie provinces. (See other stories Page 13).

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

When Bill Muncy first taught school in London, he found most of his pupils bilingual. On the street and at play, he says, they had a language of their own, something composed of slang, non-grammatical constructions and substitute words that he didn't understand at all. In the classroom they spoke and wrote correct English.

Now, as he winds up his teaching career in Victoria, he compares the tongues of the British metropolis with the language usages of his Canadian charges. Here, he says, the children have their own slang and non-grammatical constructions on the street and at play. When they enter the classrooms, they take the same practices with them in speech and writing. It's becoming the Canadian language.

You don't have to talk to many teenagers to see his point. Ask one how he's getting along and two will get you five that he'll say he's doing "good, or doin' not so good. It would be just as easy for him to say "well" instead of "good," but you can't blame him too much. If "fine," if he said "fine," he'd have you worrying half the day wondering what was wrong with that reply.

Maybe language is just getting chummier. The adjective is coming off its high horse and filling in for the adverb without protest. Or maybe the spirit of democracy is prevailing over such autocratic practices as the insistence on the same case after as before the verb "to be." It's time that little bit of pedantry went the way Churchill sent the rule on sentence-ending prepositions.

That Is I

When someone knocks at your door and you shout, "Who's there," it's just plain repulsive to have the answer come back: "It is I." Give me the guy who just hollers, "It's me." That's a guy with his coat off, his tie loosened and his sleeves rolled up. Grammatically he's not wearing striped trousers and a cutaway coat. He's going to be a lot easier to talk to and get along with than the punctiliously correct savant. At least, he's going to be more comfortable company.

To the purist, the trend today reflects the psalmist's "change and decay." Theoretically he's right, too. Only language, to live, has to be the spoken word of the living, not merely the written idiom of the past.

You can praise or blame—according to how you feel—the sports pages for much of the change. You can glory in, or be nauseated by, the phrase-making of such personalities as "Two-Ton" Tony Galento, the keg who walked like a man and greeted each challenger with "I'll molder da bum." You can do the same with the late "Yussel the Mussel" Jacobs, who phrased the philosophy of personal disaster in that gaudy philological contortion, "I shoulda stood in bed."

You can love or distrust Danton Runyon for the sublime way he transcribed a living style of language into print with a hundred, and more distortions that have all added up to more picturesque speech.

The Voice Of Steel

And you can hiss or curse the comic strips for new words, like "boi-o-o-ing," which is a product of the steel age and the doubtful symphony of machinery.

You can't point to present developments in the oral or written word as examples of culture and refinement. But you have to admit those developments are here and that they haven't reduced the transmission of ideas entirely to the chaos of babel.

On the other hand, you'll be excused if you worry a little about the inclination to ignore the rules. Too often they're side-stepped through sheer laziness, which can result in sheer, original ignorance. And you can have a few misgivings over the possibility that, in time, shrinking vocabularies and ignored grammatical construction may add to the difficulties of communication between people who share the same tongue.

But don't worry too much. There'll still be examples of correct forms preserved. There'll still be scholars, and there are an increasing number of new Canadians of foreign origin who are learning how to speak English correctly. It may be one of the skills they're bringing us.

Bargain Rates For Jail's Use May Be Ended

Outside police forces who use the city jail and court facilities will likely be finding their annual bills somewhat higher than they have been in the past.

This was indicated at a meeting of the police commission Thursday afternoon.

Members of the police commission, Mayor Claude Harrison and Commissioners Brent Murdoch and W. J. Hamilton, expressed amazement when Police Chief John Blackstock's figures showed "how cheaply" outside forces were getting the use of Victoria facilities for safekeeping of prisoners and use of court rooms.

"I think all should pay the full amount," said the mayor.

Figures showed that, while the cost of keeping R.C.M.P. prisoners and moderate use of the court-room amounted to $4,400 in 1950, they were billed for only $400.

The Saanich bill for the same year was $1,900 and they were charged $400. Esquimalt's bill was $685 and they were charged $300.

Allied Plane Losses Big In January

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 1 (AP).—Allied airmen shot down 31 Red jets in January and lost 52 of their own planes, Far East air forces reported today.

The Allied loss was the greatest in any month of the 20-month Korean war.

Increasingly-accurate Communist anti-aircraft fire destroyed 23 United Nations jets and 21 propeller planes. Five F-86 Sabre jets were shot down in air battles. One Sabre and two B-29 Superforts were lost because of mechanical failures.

In addition to the 31 Russian-type Mig-15 jets shot down, Allied pilots were credited with probably destroying two and damaging 30.

The air force said during the entire war the Allies have lost 479 planes compared to 850 Red aircraft destroyed or damaged, including 611 Migs.

Snow- and overcast skies grounded most Allied planes Friday morning.

No major ground action was reported.

One division of the central front reported a temperature of 44 below zero Thursday.

Refinery Blast Kills 2

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 1 (CP)—35, died three hours later in hospital here.

Three Sarnia men were burned to death Thursday when the explosion of three oil heaters caught them inside a partly-built distillation unit at the Canadian Oil Companies' refinery at Froonfield, five miles south of here.

Sidney B. (Pat) Thompson, 31, and John Stanford, about 26, died inside the tower. Frank Gromley, 35, died three hours later in hospital here.

Jan Demeliuk, 38, is in satisfactory condition in hospital with burns on his face, hands and legs. Jack Carpenter was released from hospital after treatment.

It was believed that all of the men but Carpenter were working on a scaffolding 40 feet up inside the tower. Carpenter, a riveter working nearby, had stepped inside the tower to escape the wind.

Reds Want Fate Of Korean Civilians Left To 'Good Faith' Of Both Sides

MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 1 (AP).—Communist negotiators proposed today that the fate of 600,000 displaced Korean civilians be left to the "good faith" of the Allies and Communists.

The Reds (1) turned down a United Nations plan to have neutrals find out where the displaced Koreans want to live, (2) cut the Allied proposals for inspections at 12 ports of entry to three, and (3) did not reply to the Allied selection of Switzerland, Sweden and Norway as neutral observers of a Korean truce.

Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby said: "We told them good faith was not enough" guarantee that displaced civilians would be allowed to live where they choose. He said "everything was very amicable except they didn't agree."

The U.N. proposed that neutral teams interview displaced persons after the Reds again rejected a proposal to give the job to the international committee of the Red Cross. The Communists said they wanted no part of the Red Cross because it is not neutral.

There was no mention of voluntary prisoner repatriation, key stumbling block in the prisoner-exchange negotiations.

Staff officers working on truce supervision machinery completed a preliminary study of the Allied working draft.

The official U.N. command communiqué said the officers "will now attempt to resolve the differences in viewpoints, most of them minor, which have been uncovered."

Among the differences in viewpoint is a disagreement over how many ports of entry should be inspected by neutral teams. The U.N. proposed 12 on either side—24 all told. The Reds suggested that three on each side would be sufficient.

An Allied spokesman said other disputes involve the number of troops each side may rotate, several U.N. held coastal islands which the Reds want and the number of neutral inspection teams behind the lines.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

By PHILIP LEE
Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

POPULAR—Many soldiers in Canada's 25th Brigade may find it hard to understand why Korea is a mighty popular place among sailors.

The most popular ships in the Atlantic command of the navy are those slated for duty in Korea, say officers of the R.C.N. manning depot, Halifax, charged with the allocation of all non-officer personnel on the East Coast.

At least 80 per cent of the original crews of the destroyers Nootka and Huron—which have done a tour of duty in the Far East—were more than willing to return. In addition, the depot received more than 200 additional applications for service in Nootka before she sailed, Dec. 30, for another stint of Korea. She has a complement of about 260 men.

CELLOPHANE—In Saigon, Indo-China, Graham Greene, British Roman Catholic author, today blamed "America's cellophane curtain" for forcing him to cancel a trip to the United States.

He said he had waited unsuccessfully 19 days for a United States visa, although supported by local American diplomats and the state department.

Probable cause for the delay, he said, was a correct news item in Time magazine to the effect that he had been probationary member of Britain's Communist party while an Oxford student.

STUDIED—In Johannesburg, South Africa, a leading pro-government paper, Die Transvaler, says editorially today that the question whether South Africa should blindly follow Britain in crisis after crisis should be carefully studied.

"No good nationalist will refuse England help which is in South Africa's interest, but South Africa's interest must always be paramount," the paper says.

Die Transvaler says though the opposition stressed on Britain's yearly purchase of South African goods to the value of $60,000,000, South Africa is a much better client of Britain, buying goods worth more than $140,000,000 annually.

FIRST OF HIS RACE

Little Chinese On Duty With Legislature Pages

Nine Victoria schoolboys will be able to skip classes later this month and not have to worry about the truant officer catching up to them.

Their education will not stop, however. Instead, they'll have a first-hand opportunity to learn about the Canadian form of government.

The nine are to be page boys during the coming session of the B.C. Legislature. They will report for work Feb. 18, day before the session opens, and will serve until the lawmakers decide to go home.

Among the page corps this session will be smiling Howard Lim, from North Ward School. Howard, who lives at 859 Queens, will be the first Chinese-Canadian to serve in the assembly.

REFUSED—In Paris the French eye bank has refused a murderer's bequest of his eyes after execution because cataract patients do not want to look at the world through "killer's eyes."

Michael Courtin, 23, a farm laborer who killed his employer's wife and her 12-year-old daughter, is waiting to go to the guillotine and made his offer from the condemned cell. But in the future the eye bank will refuse all such bequests.

Some sufferers have refused the grafting operation which could restore their sight merely because the bank cannot assure them that the graft does not come from a murderer.

DIED—In Toronto, George Hobden Corsan, 94, internationally-known nut grower who defied the advance of old age by sticking to a rigid diet of nuts, fruit and vegetables, died Thursday night in Miami, Fla.

His son, George, said here he received word of the death of the leathery, thrice-married nut king and dietary enthusiast who spent his summers on his nut farm at Echo Valley in suburban Islington, and his winters on his 16-acre nut-and-citrus-fruit plantation, El Corsand, in South Miami.

Only last spring, Corsan recovered from a broken neck suffered in a 20-foot fall from a ladder while examining grafted buds on an English walnut tree at Islington. It proved only a temporary setback to Corsan, who left hospital in three weeks.

YIELD—In Poughkeepsie, N.Y., three doctors decided today to yield to an ultimatum that they either resign from a birth control unit or leave their positions on a Roman Catholic hospital's medical staff.

They were among seven non-Catholic doctors ordered by the St. Francis hospital to sever their connections with the planned parenthood league or quit the staff of the 200-bed institution.

The four other doctors declined to say what action they would take.

Civil Service 'Empires' Draw Member's Fire

Special to The Times

COURTENAY—The accusation that there are civil servants who are trying to build "departmental empires" to justify their existence, has been levelled by Arthur Ash, Sanich M.L.A.

Review of government departments with a view to cutting expenses was called for by Ash, speaking before the Courtenay Liberal Association.

"Many thousands of dollars could be saved throughout government departments if elected representatives made a definite effort towards this problem," Ash declared.

Maintaining most civil servants were endeavoring to carry out their duties efficiently, he submitted: "There are some in high office trying to build departmental empires to justify their existence."

NAMES HIS TARGET

Ash singled out the department of trade and industry, which until last month was headed by a Conservative minister, as one which needed a "thorough overhauling." In the last 10 years, he pointed out, expenditures of this department had increased over $500,000. He said the bureau of economics and statistics, which operated under this department, was duplicating much of the work done by federal statisticians.

Ash noted, also, that the government rented its machinery from International Business Machine Corporation and was forced to pay annual royalties amounting to $166,000.

"Only the essential and necessary expenditures should be carried out," Ash declared. "With the current industrial boom now in progress, the government should have additional revenue, and it should be passed on to the people."

Services Held For Victorian Larry Irving

Funeral services were held today at McCall's Chapel for Lawrence H. (Larry) Irving, formerly of Victoria, who died suddenly in Vancouver last Sunday. He was 33.

Born in Calgary, Mr. Irving came to live in Victoria at an early age and attended Quadra School and Victoria High.

At the outbreak of World War II, he enlisted in the Canadian army and served five years with the First Survey Regiment of the First Division. He saw service in North Africa, Italy and Europe, and was mentioned in dispatches.

In 1949, Mr. Irving graduated at the University of Washington with a Bachelor of Science in Forestry. He was a member of the B. C. Registered Foresters and employed by C. O. Shultz and Company, Vancouver.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lena Irving, and a sister, Mary, 1421 Stadacona.

Robeson's Bar From Canada Alleged 'Nazi'

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 1 (UP)—Vincent Hallinan, attorney for Negro singer Paul Robeson and longshore leader Harry Bridges, today labeled an immigration order preventing him and Robeson from leaving the United States "typically Nazi."

He said he would go to court to stop the immigration department from hindering his plans to leave the country, even to visit Canada.

Hallinan and Robeson were prevented Thursday from crossing the border into Canada. The attorney was taken off a train at Blaine, Wash., and given a note saying he could not leave the country. Robeson was kept from driving across the border.

Truman's Fine Print

IF THE ECONOMIC PROSPECTS OF the United States and hence of the free world are to be assessed, one must read the fine print in President Truman's budget message. And even then, of course, it is impossible to guess whether the inflationary spiral is nearing or over its peak.

On the face of it the proposed Truman budget is a staggering document, its figures almost too large for understanding. In the present fiscal year Mr. Truman says his government will spend 70 billions. In the year beginning July 1 he proposes to spend 85 billions. If his plan were adopted it would be an inflationary factor of major magnitude. A government, even in a country as rich as the United States, cannot spend 85 billions, buying up goods in competition with the private consumer, and fall to bid up prices.

But the Truman budget is deceptive for two reasons.

In the first place, Congress is not likely to approve it. The President's spending plans no doubt will be whittled down, pretty drastically.

Secondly, the budget does not show what the government actually spends but what it proposes to spend. The real spending of this year, for example, will not be nearly so large as the total of 70 billions voted by Congress and available to the government. The United States budgeted to spend about 50 billions on defense in the present fiscal year and this is shown on the budget as an actual cost. In fact, as the fine print in the budget message shows, the total defense spending will be something under 40 billions.

In the same way next year's military budget, fixed by the President at 51 billions, can hardly be spent, even though the armament factories will then be working at full speed.

Again, Mr. Truman says the government will run a deficit of eight billions this year. That would be a strong inflationary factor, meaning that the state was taking far less money out of the public's hands than it was putting back into circulation. Fortunately there should be no real deficit at all. In addition to its ordinary tax revenues the government is collecting huge sums through social security levies and the like. It will take in as much cash as it puts out.

Next year, Mr. Truman says, the deficit of his proposed budget (before it is cut by Congress), will reach the incredible sum of 14 billions. If such a deficit occurred the effect on inflation could be profound. There well may be a real deficit, even considering the non-budgetary revenue collections, but it should not approach the figure mentioned by the President.

Considering that Congress has yet to revise the President's budget, that total spending and total collections cannot be accurately calculated in advance. It is impossible yet to say what effect the President's policies will have on prices. One thing, however, is sure, the effect of the budget in lesser or greater degree must be to raise prices in the United States and if they rise there they will rise everywhere.

Against that, however, are strong deflationary factors now coming into play—chiefly increased production and the consumer's reduced appetite for expensive goods. These are the two factors that count far more than the government's budget. The second factor is the largest habit of the public, is not only spending habits but the most incalculable factor of all. Whether prices will rise or fall must depend mostly on the public itself.

Cloud In Our Sky

MR. H. R. MACMILLAN KNOWS AS much about the lumber business as any man in the world. Looking at the vast forest industries which are the main source of British Columbia's livelihood, he says that "markets have become more selective, and possibly during the next 12 months lower average prices may appear for a greater part of the output of B.C. mills." This, in the guarded language of an industrialist, is a strong warning of a change in the economic climate.

What worries the B.C. lumber industry is the prospect of a sale to Britain. The present British lumber contract will expire at the end of June. Will it be renewed? At what price? In what volume?

Nobody knows that yet because the British government has not decided its purchasing policies for the next year. Mr. Churchill's rather chilling speech in Ottawa the other day suggests that Britain may buy less lumber and other things here. Certainly it will try to get a lower price. At the moment lumber prices are higher than American solely because we have the cushion of the assured British market. We may not have it in such volume, after this summer.

As Mr. Macmillan says the big mills can get along with lower prices if they have to and still keep operating. But a large number of little mills throughout the province do business on a narrow margin, cut relatively poor timber, pay high wages and cannot accept any serious drop in price without closing down. A general price reduction, therefore, could have widespread repercussions.

Yet at this moment, when the prospects are so doubtful, the lumber unions are demanding a sharp increase in wages which would make the position of the smaller mills still more precarious. The unions will be wise to consider where all this is leading, and how the jobs of lumber workers may be affected.

For the same general reasons—because British Columbia's whole fiscal position depends mainly on its major industry—the provincial government should be holding down its expenditures in the next budget as low as possible, in case revenues fall during the next year or two. It will be easy to raise both wages and government spending if the difficulties now looming ahead should disappear.

Meeting The Competition

IT IS DIFFICULT TO RECONCILE the fear of Mr. J. S. Turnbull, president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, that dairy products may soon disappear from the market, with his further statement that the next three years will see an increase of at least a billion and a half pounds in the demand for milk.

Mr. Turnbull's fears, of course, are based on the growing production of butter substitutes. Vegetable oils, he says, pose an ever more dangerous threat to the dairy industry, and he urges provincial and federal legislation to protect butterfat producers.

The cry for government protection is a common one in every industry which must face the impact of new competition, and there will be every sympathy for the great number of dairy farmers who already are plagued by difficulties peculiar to their business. The vital problems posed by the limited supply of labor available for farm work, high feed and equipment costs, and the butcher's lure of soaring meat prices, all contribute to the difficulties of maintaining production.

It seems unlikely, however, that foods so valuable as milk and its products can be ousted by substitutes, although that statement does not preclude drastic changes in the industry. The small producer may in time be forced out of the general market and left to provide only for himself and a few neighbors. It may be that, as one expert suggests, fresh milk will disappear from widespread use, to be replaced by canned milk turned out from factories which monopolize the whole output of vast milk farms.

Apart from such speculation, it is safe to say that there will always be a market for any good product which is priced within the reach of those who wish to use it. No matter how inexpensive margarine may become, many will prefer butter. Fresh milk will have its devotees however attractive the canned variety may be, and pure cream will never be wholly replaced by vegetable oils for those with a liking for its advantages.

That the market will have to be shared with vegetable products is obvious. No legislation can indefinitely deny the human demand for all the new products we can devise. To order it otherwise would be to stall all progress—a development the modern farmer would be the first to protest.

Saying It With Flowers Again

WITHIN THE NEXT FEW WEEKS Victoria's garden fame will fly east in the form of packaged daffodils to delight homes still shivering in the grip of winter. But the annual export of blooms is not required to prove the growing importance of the bulb industry here.

In his address to the Vancouver Island Bulb Growers' Association this week, J. W. Howroyd, president, announced that the industry is not only holding its own against outside competition, but needs substantial expansion to meet the demand for the British Columbia product.

The announcement confirms the forecasts made here during the war years, when exports from Holland declined and flower fanciers turned to other sources for their stock.

In a community widely renowned as the "city of homes and gardens," it is gratifying to learn of the success commercial growers are finding far afield.

Stamp Of Revulsion

PRESIDENT TRUMAN STRUCK A blow for decency throughout the democratic world this week when he made his press conference statements on Senator Joseph McCarthy. The President has stated his opinion that McCarthy is a pathological liar, a charlatan, an assassin and that, as such, he has not found it necessary to deal in facts.

McCarthy's lack of merit has been accurately assessed on other occasions.

The presidential announcement gives those assessments the stamp of approval.

Yet it is not by such pronouncements that McCarthy has destroyed himself in the eyes of decent men and women. He has accomplished that form of self-destruction by his own words and his own acts.

One service he has performed: He has shown that a strong core of fundamental honesty in humanity turns in revulsion from his kind.

LOOSE ENDS

Uncle Louis

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

OTTAWA—The Prime Minister's office in the East Block looks out upon the upraised finger of the Peace Tower, upon the massive snowdrifts of the lawns, upon the crazy towers of the West Block and, beyond that, across the life of the nation. Here, in this room, that life is centred.

A rather bare room, without ornament or ostentation, like the nation about it; an old-fashioned room, of high ceilings ringed with ugly plaster fretwork and an absurd iron fireplace of Victorian design. In the centre is a plain walnut desk, too small for any man who likes to spread his papers about in congenial disorder but satisfactory to its present owner, who has no talent for confusion. Behind the desk sits a slight, grey man with ruddy cheeks and dark eyes of extraordinary power. In the present Canadian myth he is called Uncle Louis.

IF ANYONE imagines that the Prime Minister is a kindly, avuncular figure from a small town in Quebec, that he is the most popular government leader of modern times simply because he has a genial disposition, that illusion soon perishes when Mr. St. Laurent gets down to business.

When a subject as deep as this emerges the Prime Minister's face gets a little redder, the shoulders twitch in the familiar Gallic gesture, the eyes harden, the voice is raised and occasionally you can detect in the accent the Irish brogue of his mother. This, you perceive, is what Franklin Roosevelt used to call himself—a very tough guy.

IN THE old days I saw many of Roosevelt's press conferences and watched the greatest actor of his times in some of his largest roles. Mr. St. Laurent does not possess Roosevelt's histrionic genius who does—but he has a superb command of such a situation when he knows that the eyes of the whole nation are boring in on him through every newspaper in the land. My experience is limited but I never saw Roosevelt handle such a job more effectively. And I think it was effective mostly because Mr. St. Laurent was not Uncle Louis or the leader of the Liberal Party, or the great lawyer from Quebec City but just himself.

HE FEELS deeply about the Crown in Canada. He, like most French Canadians, is a passionate monarchist and remembers in his bones that his race has been longer under a king, without interruption, than any other people in the Commonwealth, perhaps in the world. To him, as he says, the monarchial system is the best system ever invented for the government of a people. He would resign tomorrow before he would do anything which he thought might weaken the institution of kingship in Canada.

WHETHER he is right or wrong in this particular matter of the Governor-General, there can be no doubt of his own feelings—he thinks he is strengthening, not weakening, the Commonwealth. It is my conviction, moreover, for whatever it is worth, that very few Canadians feel so strongly as he does, both constitutionally and emotionally, about the importance of the Crown as an instrument of government and, still more deeply, about the mystique of the Crown as a unifying force in a democratic society.

AND SO HE looks out the windows across the snows of Canada, this extraordinary man who has compressed a unique political career into ten short years and is today the undisputed leader of the nation with a personal power which Mackenzie King never equalled. He looks out on this curious land and somewhere, I think, he understands it as few statesmen have ever understood it. One leaves his office wishing only that he were twenty years younger.

Bed Wear

Times of London

THE human cocoon, snugly curled up in bed on a winter's night, is heir to ages of progressive ingenuity. The comfort and luxury that wrap him around would seem a dream-out of "Scheherazade" to his ancestors.

He shivered in straw or stified in preposterous galleons with four posts, heavy curtains and a substratum of feathers. He lies between a mattress sprung with cunning and a light, warm and, costly collection of sheets, blankets and eiderdown. So pampered is he that, failing to count his blessings, he hankers after electrically heated bedclothes and, in advanced cases of hedonism, for silk pyjamas.

What few people would have expected of him is that he still sometimes prefers nightshirts to pyjamas. The older garment has always held its own against the newcomer from the east with women, but even they are fickle in their loyalty and prefer, in large numbers, to go to bed in two-piece suits.

Now there is news of men once more robbing themselves for sleep as did that culprit in "Tom Brown's School-days" who was caught by an usher disporting himself in his nightshirt. After this it will scarcely be surprising to wake up one morning and find pictures in the papers of a sales rush for nightgowns.

Fashions for this end of the day have always been fluid. Kings and queens in illuminated manuscripts of the Middle Ages wear crowns in bed, but nothing else. For centuries the general rule seems to have been either to take everything off for the night or to keep everything on.

Steady Up There!

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

I KNEW he was around somewhere, of course, because I have been in bed now for almost a week and all the symptoms were present—sore throat, stuffy nose, congested chest and pains all over. But for some reason—just teasing probably—he kept out of sight. Until yesterday morning, when I was taking my hourly dose of medicine, and I heard the voice.

"Tak, tak, my friend—you know better than that!"

And there he was, perched on the baseboard of the bed, my old companion, J. Virus Bug. I would have known him anywhere.

"The druggist says this is something new," I said defensively. "Very effective."

J. Virus Bug sneered. "Horehound," he said. "Cascara. Oil of something or other. Same old stuff. New bottle, that's all."

"Well, it relieves my sore throat," I declared, and suddenly doubled over with a stomach cramp.

"What does it do for that?" asked J. Virus Bug sweetly, although he had made a wry face at the taste of the medicine and now took a handkerchief from his sleeve and patted his lips. A very fastidious fellow, J. Virus Bug, from his patent leather shoes to the pince-nez on the black silk cord.

"The stuff I have to swallow in the interests of science," he murmured wearily.

I scowled at the fellow. "If I had any brains," I said, "I'd call the doctor and get a shot of penicillin and blow you to Kingdom Come, or wherever it is you're going."

J. Virus Bug crossed his legs. "Mind if I smoke?" he enquired, and lit a mentholated cigarette. "Now, about penicillin and those other wonder drugs. I must admit that they worried me in the beginning. They—"

I had a coughing spell at that point, and J. Virus Bug looked at me in distaste, took an atomizer from his pocket and sprayed his throat.

"As I say," he continued, "penicillin gave me some bad moments. Sometimes I was knocked out for days. Very fright-making, you know. But I always came back. And now, in cases like yours, for instance, I've built up a nice immunity. You could shoot yourself full of holes, my friend, and I'd still be here. By the way, if you're cold in this room, I'd be glad to whip up a nice fever for you—say about 103."

Out in the corridor I heard our young son say to my wife: "Daddy is in there talking to someone. Only I looked in and I can't see anyone."

"It's probably Harvey, his invisible rabbit friend," my wife said. "He often talks to Harvey."

J. Virus Bug heard it and snorted angrily. "I'm no rabbit," he declared. "I'll go out there and—"

"Leave them alone," I begged. "Just give me an extra pain and let it go at that." Which he did.

I was lying there a little later in the day when there came a stealthy knock on the bedroom door and I twisted around to see Little Augie creeping into the room.

"Hi, pal," he whispered. "I saw dem eggs-nogs they is feeding you. Ugh! Listen, bud, I've just produced a new batch of extra-special Little Augie pale ale. Brought you the first bottle."

"Well, thanks, Little Augie," I murmured, and took the bottle he handed me. It was already open and I smiled at him. "Nice of you to think of me."

"It's notin'," said Little Augie. I helped myself to a good drink. My head took off from my body, made a circle of the room, stopped to take a look in the mirror, turned pale and hurried back to sit on my neck again.

"Wow!"

Little Augie looked pleased. "Pretty good, eh?" he said.

And then I heard it—a sort of throttled cry. I leaned over the side of the bed and on the floor, lying on his back and choking to death, was J. Virus Bug.

"You—!" he screamed hoarsely, gave a convulsive jerk and thereupon expired. Well—I may be getting up any time now. I've suggested to Little Augie that we bottle the stuff as a patent medicine.

Over The Ocean Waves

New York Times

THE mysterious ways of drifting bottles and their unpredictable journeys over the waters of the oceans are a challenge to the imagination.

A recent United Press dispatch from Nag's Head, North Carolina, reports that a bottle containing a distress message dated July 16, 1942, was found along the beach. The signer of the message was Thomas Gowan, electrician's mate, second class.

"This is the end," the message said. "We're in the middle of nowhere. Lost compass. God help us and good-bye to our loved ones."

From what ocean the bottle was cast, and where it has been drifting for nine and a half years, is unknown. Even the United States Navy Hydrographic Office admits the unpredictable drifts of the bottles it sends out, and gives as an example 10 bottles cast overboard from a merchant vessel near the equator and St. Paul Rocks in the Atlantic.

Two of the 10 have been recovered; one washed ashore on the west coast of Africa after drifting 130 days; the other was found on the coast of Nicaragua after drifting 196 days. Who can say why one capricious bottle chose to head eastward, while the other drifted westward?

There's something rather romantic in the idea of drifting bottles traveling to out-of-the-way places and bearing greetings from Americans (rather than the distress messages from sailors and explorers) to people who speak a different language.

As Our Readers See It

SOCIAL CREDIT

It is nice of Mr. Fahey, your correspondent, to reassure us that, after all, Alberta has Social Credit even though his reasons seem unconvincing.

Wasn't there a man called Douglas who knew something about Social Credit and who wrote that the present government in Alberta was as much Social Credit as the last government in England was Labor?

ANALYSES PICTURE

Allow me to express my admiration for the picture that appeared in your paper on Jan. 24.

I am not a critic of art nor a religious man, but just one who takes time out to think. In the picture as a whole I can see what God expects from humanity.

In Dr. Gillespie I can see a picture of strength, yet in the smile of his face, compassion, joy and happiness in service to others. His strong hand is relaxed just enough to show tenderness like as a father unto his children.

The posture of Donna reflects surrender without fear. She seems so unconcerned as to what may happen or what the doctor does to her. Her face is a picture of innocence, faith and trust.

Sandra's body being a little tense and the tightness of her lips show expectation, and her eyes show love and adoration.

The picture shows man as God meant him to be. A great picture.

LETTER OF THANKS

Kindly allow me, through your reader's forum, to express my sincere gratitude to all the doctors, nurses, and to so many of the staff at the D.V.A. Hospital, for their care, kindness and consideration, far beyond the call of duty, extended towards my late husband and myself during his long and serious illness.

To many of the patients, and their relatives, for their friendship and loyal support which has helped us over many a rough spot.

To my friends and neighbors, both in Alberta and here in Victoria, who have shown their kindness in so many practical ways, not only at this time, but all the time. Thank you, dear people, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep you" is the sincere wish of Beatrix Bullock and the entire family.

'HOSPITAL GAMBLE'

There has just come to my knowledge a most illuminating case of the working of our (so-called) Hospital Insurance which, in the ordinary acceptance of the term, is no "insurance" at all.

Here are the facts. An old lady who, having duly paid her tax, is taken very seriously ill and is in dire need of immediate hospitalization. The doctor has done, and is doing, all in his power to see that she gets it, so far without the slightest success, there being no available bed at either hospital. The authorities say "we cannot give you what we haven't got."

Now that, in the old days when hospitals were run largely by public subscription, would seem to be a very reasonable answer. One would look upon it as a very sad case and the poor old lady as being out of luck. But these are not the old days and the circumstances are entirely different.

To be honest, the authorities should do one of two things, either they should supply the services for which they have been paid, or they should return the money for services that they are unable to render. They cannot of course help having an overcrowded hospital, but they should not be able to force a patient to pay for not being able to get into it.

There are all kinds of names that may be correctly applied to this extraordinary Hospital Insurance Act but the word "insurance" is certainly not one of them.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"WERE being amazed," said the Elevator Man, "every day by the new achievements of medical science. The wonder drugs, the new surgical techniques, the clever equipment that is devised to meet new needs, all help to make this the Age of the Uncommon Man. But every now and then we read of another type of miracle—some simple-sounding job, without drugs or equipment, that matches the others or exceeds them. Take that case in Chicago the other day... A nurse whose heart stopped beating during a minor operation was kept alive for an hour and 45 minutes by doctors who grasped her blood pump in one hand and massaged it to keep the flow moving. Then electrical treatments got it going on its own again. When you come to think of it, that feat seems much more wonderful than those that depend on intricate instruments or machines or complicated chemical formulas. Just a rubber-gloved hand and a steady rhythm kept that life aglow, Mezzanine!"

"It's a pity," said the Elevator Man, "the same technique can't be used on some of our other problems. Keeping the life aglow in a nation, for instance, or the whole world for that matter. You often think, if somebody could just grasp the global heart and keep it working with a calm rhythm and a steady pulse, our main troubles would be over. It's when the world's pulse gets excited and erratic, when the Egyptian artery starts overflowing or the Soviet vein gets clogged, that we have trouble. Coagulation can be spiritual as well as plasmic. It seems. Going down!"

"It isn't," said the Elevator Man, "the size of the heart that seems to count in any case, much as we like the adjective big-hearted. It's like that news item that said the average woman has a vocabulary of only 500 words. 'Yes,' mused the husband, 'but think of the turnover!'"

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE
RECORD TO DATE, 1952—
41.6 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Gales and rain buffeted the West Coast of Vancouver Island Thursday night as an active storm moved through Queen Charlotte Sound into the Prince George region. The north coast escaped the full force of this storm because it was north of the centre.

Mixed rain and snow preceded the storm in the southern Interior and was not expected to end in the Kootenays until this afternoon. Some clearing was looked forward to on the coast today but this is not expected to last. However, Interior weather promises to include considerable sunshine.

Saturday. Little change in the current temperature pattern is anticipated.

Only 46 Policemen On 24-Hour Shifts

Has Victoria enough policemen on daily duty to do a proper job?

This question arose Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the police commission when figures by Police Chief John Blackstock showed that only 46 sergeants and constables were available on an average day for round-the-clock coverage.

The police department strength was 74 sergeants and constables, but the daily figure of the men on the job was only 46 because of a five-day week, annual and statutory holidays, sickness and special duties.

Single Transferable Vote To Save Free Enterprise, Wismer Declares

VANCOUVER, Feb. 1 (CP).—Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer said Thursday the vital issue in British Columbia politics is the preservation of private enterprise.

He repeated statements made by Premier Byron Johnson and himself that the B.C. government is a coalition administration.

Mr. Wismer said he could not say when an election will be held or what kind of ballot will be used, but in the next breath he instructed the audience "how to use the single transferable vote."

"After you give your first vote to me," he said, "you will have a second choice."

"I hope the people will see that by use of the single transferable vote they will retain free enterprise. Vote for free enterprise parties."

"I did not come here to rock a boat or to make a partisan speech," he told a Liberal audience.

"There should not be any bickering between the parties."

At another point he said: "Not for one moment would I want to make political capital out of this thing (the ousting of Progressive Conservative leader Herbert Anscomb from the cabinet)."

"The premier and his advisers are going to do what is in the best interests of the province," he said.

"We are not going to play politics with this matter because it is too important."

"I am not making a campaign speech. There is no election and I do not know when there will be one."

From a constitutional standpoint, the attorney-general said, there is no need for an election until the end of the parliamentary term in 1953.

"This government has the same mandate it received in 1949," he declared.

KEEP MANDATE

"We were elected as a Coalition government supporting Premier Johnson. The fact that one or more Conservatives have chosen to walk out does not take away the government's mandate."

"Just assume that my resignation was asked for and four or five Liberals quit the cabinet. The position would be precisely the same."

He said it was the duty of the legislature to deal with reports of the commissions and committees on labor relations, workmen's compensation and hospital insurance.

But when an election does come, he said, "I hope both sides go into it with constructive programs and no bickering."

To cheers of the crowd he stressed the need of maintaining a "political climate" in which capital has confidence.

"If we have a socialist government here, it may not bring progress to a sudden stop, but it will be a drag on the wheel and set it back 25 years."

"That is our first concern."

LABOR PLANS NEW EFFORT TO UNSEAT TORIES

Churchill's Foreign Policy Under Fire

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Socialists put pressure today on their party leaders for another early attempt to defeat Winston Churchill's Conservative government in the House of Commons and force it to resign.

Some Labor members of parliament demanded that their party chief, Clement Attlee, try to unseat the government with a motion of no confidence during next week's debate on foreign policy. The bones of contention are Prime Minister Churchill's Far Eastern policy and commitments the Labor members fear he made on his recent visit to Washington.

The Conservatives Thursday night defeated a Labor vote of censure on financial cuts designed to make Britain solvent within a year and which, among other things, imposed charges for use of Britain's socialized health services. Churchill's party won by a vote of 309 to 278. The House then adopted the fiscal program 306 to 275. The Liberals voted with the Conservative party, swelling its nominal majority of 14 votes.

ATTLEE SILENT

Attlee so far has declined to say what he would do about the demands that he try to oust Churchill over foreign policy.

For more than 12 years no government has had to face any major challenge in the Commons on its conduct abroad. Both major parties have followed the same broad principles in foreign affairs.

But many Labor supporters say it is time now for the bi-partisan end.

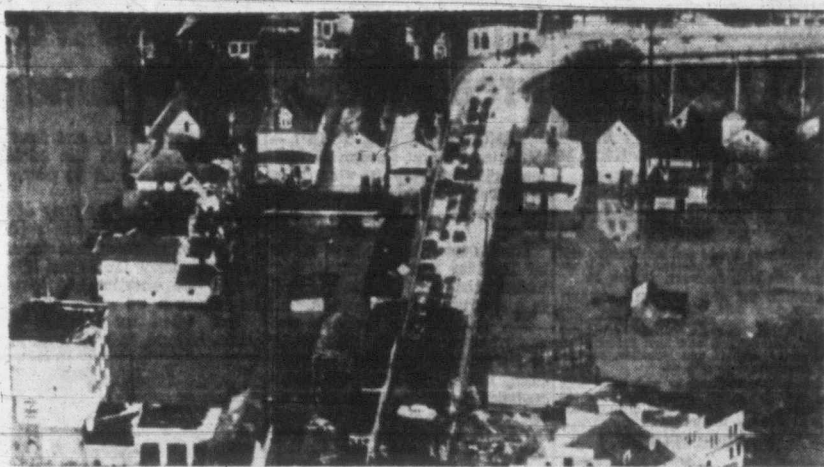

The big difference arises over Conservative and Labor views about British policy in the Far East.

Many Labor members, and many other Britons, fear Churchill agreed Britain would join the U.S. in bombing and blockading the mainland of China if any future Korean truce is broken. Churchill told the Commons Britain had no formal commitment to join in such punitive action and that his reference to "prompt, resolute and effective action" did not represent any new decisions made during the Washington discussions.

Churchill is to take a leading part in the foreign affairs debate, with a complete statement Wednesday on the Washington talks. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will be the other principal government speaker.

NOAH'S ARK SOCIETY

BARCELONA (Reuters)—This city's famous Noah's Ark Society, formed of people with surnames of birds and animals, will celebrate its 25th anniversary soon by giving a "feast" to animals in the zoo here. The president of the society is Don Guillermo Clervo (William Deer).

U.N. Labels Russia Treaty-Breaker

PARIS, Feb. 1 (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly approved today an American-backed resolution labeling Russia a treaty-breaker for failing to live up to its 1945 friendship pact with Nationalist China.

With almost half the members not voting, the ballot was 25 to nine, with 24 abstentions and two members not present.

The Assembly's action in approving the resolution, which rebuked the Soviet Union for its failure to live up to its 1945 friendship pact with Nationalist China, was a triumph for the United States.

Earlier today Burma's chief delegate to the United Nations said his country will call on the U.N. and only the U.N.—if it needs help to drive Chinese Nationalist stragglers out of north Burma.

His apparent repudiation of an earlier indication that Burma might seek such help from the Chinese Communists came as Soviet delegate Jakob Malik repeated his charges that United States officers are leading "military action by the Nationalists" in north Burma.

U.S. delegate John Sherman Cooper again today repeated the American denial of Malik's charges.

Chief Burmese delegate U Myint Thien earlier had told reporters "our government's attitude is that we believe in only one pact, the 60-nation pact (U.N. Charter). If any assistance is required it will be sought from the U.N."

The Chinese troops in Burma, estimated at 4,000 to 5,000, fled there when Chiang Kai-shek's regime collapsed and Chiang's government now says it has no control over them.

Officer in Charge, Snag Meteorological Office

SNAG, Y.T., Feb. 1 (CP)—What's it like at 77 degrees below zero in this icebox of the north? The skies are clear. Sparkling ice crystals fall continually. You become used to the hissing sound caused by your breath freezing. Small patches of ice fog can be seen hanging over the sleigh dogs lying in the yard.

At 9:30 a.m. Jan. 20 the temperature here dropped to the phenomenal low of 77.6 degrees below zero, within four degrees of the all-time low of 81 degrees below recorded Feb. 3, 1947. (The world record is said to be 93.6 degrees below, recorded in 1885 at the Siberian village of Verchyanish.)

Snag is the last Canadian intermediate emergency airport, radio range station and meteorological observing station on the north west staging route between Edmonton and Fairbanks, Alaska.

It is situated in the broad White River valley about 20 miles east of the Alaska-Yukon border, and 16 miles northeast of the Alaska highway.

Reports of the recent extremely cold weather were compiled and dispatched by the writer, G. C. Heddie and the staff of radio range operators who also act in the capacity of weather observers. James Granger had the honor of being the radio operator observing when the temperature dipped to the 77.6 mark.

PATCHES OF FOG

All during the cold weather the skies were clear but patches of fog, and sometimes dense fog, surrounded the station. Smoke from the diesel power plant caused ice fog to form and vehicles moving around the station left vapor trails.

At no time during the cold snap was there much wind and most of the time it was dead calm. Smoke rose straight up from all the chimneys.

A heavy snow that fell a few days before the cold spell was a great hindrance to Sergeant Tolmie, commanding the R.C.A.F. detachment and the crew responsible for maintenance, and to Mr. Heddie, who has to travel a seven-mile stretch of road to the range transmitters. On two occasions he had to walk through heavy drifts in 65 below temperatures.

During the cold wave, when the daily minimum temperatures were ranging from 65 below to the extreme of 77.6, Sgt. Tolmie was a busy man trying to keep all the facilities of the station operating normally.

Some of his daily chores consisted of thawing steam lines in the motor transport garage, keeping water lines from freezing and keeping from congealing the fuel oil that flows through two-inch pipes from tanks to furnaces and stoves.

An army staff car abandoned in a snow drift on the access road to the station had to be heated with an aircraft engine heater before the wheels could be turned. At 65 degrees below vehicles of the four-wheel-drive type proved useless, one man being unable to turn the steering wheel by himself.

UNUSUAL PENALTY

KNUTSFORD, Cheshire, Eng. (CP)—Company director Stanley Roston, 54, was fined £1,000 for building a luxurious swimming pool without a license. The court chairman said materials used in the pool would have been better employed for houses.

Michigan Unemployment Receives Serious Study

DETROIT, Feb. 1 (AP).—The fate of thousands of Michigan unemployed hinged today on "specific recommendations" promised by a government committee which studied the problem here.

More than 150,000 workers have been laid off in Michigan because of reductions in auto output and a lag in conversion from civilian to defense production.

In Detroit alone 105,000 are idle. The Michigan employment security commission has predicted the city's total will climb to 115,000 in the next two months.

R. E. Gillmor, chairman of the committee assigned by the national production authority to study the situation, said Thursday as his group left for Washington, that its recommendations will be made next Tuesday at a Washington meeting of top officials of nine government agencies.

He gave no details but indicated that two basic suggestions—urged by both industry and labor spokesmen at committee meetings here—as "carrying the most weight" with him. These were:

1. That only higher quotas in civilian auto production can help the immediate situation.

2. To prevent recurrent unemployment, defense contracts must be poured into the state—small ones to start, larger ones later.

20,000 Truck Drivers Strike In 15 Southern And Midwest U.S. States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP).—Some 20,000 A.F.L. truck drivers in 15 southern and midwest states went on strike today in a wage dispute with operators.

The strikes virtually paralyzed operation of freight companies in the 15 states. The effects were felt immediately throughout much of the eastern half of the United States.

The strikers hit the south from the Carolinas to Texas and in Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Ohio. The long-haul truckers were ordered out at midnight by the A.F.L. Teamsters' Union against approximately 500 companies.

The federal mediation service in Washington was keeping an eye on the strike situation, but there was no indication what the government's next step might be.

Last-minute agreements between the union and operators of nine midwest states averted a walkout of another 36,000 drivers.

But strike orders to southern truckers had been sent out to local unions from headquarters of the southern conference at Memphis, Tenn., after contract negotiations collapsed.

SOME EXEMPT
W. M. Miller, chairman of the conference, estimated that at least 100,000 drivers, warehousemen and city pickup and delivery drivers in other states would be affected by the strike because of the curtailed long-haul services.

Southern states hit by the strike are Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, North and South Carolina, Kentucky and Mississippi.

Some firms in the strike areas were exempted from stoppages either because their wage contracts had not expired or because they signed individual agreements with the union.

Contracts covering the majority of truckers in the south and midwest expired at midnight last night.

HOME GARDEN

With the arrival of February the urge to commence gardening becomes more pronounced, as evidenced by the increased interest in the purchase of fertilizers, gardening tools, seeds and nursery planting stock.

Yet, although we have heard and seen the first skylark of the season here at Tillicum, the soil is again too wet for working among the plants. There are, however, some more indoor jobs which may be done now to relieve the shortage of time which always exists later in the season.

One of these is the repotting of house and greenhouse plants. Of first importance is the soil. You may need to take in some of your good compost, and spread it on the floor of the basement, or even the sunroom, for partial drying. Also check to see that your supply of peat moss is handy should you need some to add to a special potting mixture. Coarse sand you will certainly need, either wet or dry. Also I find a few handfuls of woods moss is extremely useful for some plants. Shred the moss, and spread it to partially dry.

Next to prepare is clean pots. If you already have the sizes you need, scrub them inside and out. Lukewarm water makes the job more pleasant. Use a small square of coarse sacking, soaked in water and dipped in a little coarse sand to remove the unsightly deposits on the outside of the pots.

Let the pots dry off the superfluous moisture but do not dry newly purchased pots for at least twelve hours before using. In order that the clay will have a reserve of moisture of its own, and not draw on that contained in the soil around the newly potted plant.

A good supply of crock is usually at hand, since it is nothing more or less than broken pot pieces. These are necessary for ensuring perfect drainage in the pots, and you will soon find that a piece of a five-inch pot is the right size to go in the bottom of the five-inch pot you are planting, and a piece of two-inch pot for crocking a two-inch pot. It is a matter of the curve of the crock fitting the bottom of the same size pot.

Victoria Daily Times
FRIDAY, FEB. 1, 1952

Big People And Little People---They All Chipped In

By BILL WALKER

A disc jockey, preacher, trucker, lawyer, real estate executive, newspaper publisher and a hockey manager—all far removed from baseball, combined their talents with a real veteran of the game Thursday night to "save baseball" for Victoria.

The occasion was the monster radio jamboree over radio station CKDA which reached into the homes for more than $3,000, the largest single total attained in the present drive.

Exact overall total of the fund—total objective $35,000—was not known this morning but is estimated at better than $14,000 with business canvassers still to be heard from.

But back to the show. The disc jockey was Ed Farey, the self-confessed short, fat, bald man (in reality a thin man) who almost single handedly on his radio program "Spinner Sanctum" has raised close to $5,000 including Thursday night's generous response.

The preacher was Reverend William "Bill" Hills, pastor of St. George's Church, Cadboro Bay, who rendered a classic solo of baseball's most famous poem "Casey at the Bat." It costed him $100, or four shares, to hear the unabridged version in a manner that will never again be duplicated.

The trucker was cigar-smoking Bill Heaney, friend of the kid, soccer and sport in general. Bill put the bite on his children in industry and is still awaiting results. Incidentally, he touched off his remarks with a $100-share purchase.

The lawyer was Herb Davey, K.C., of the law firm with a title longer than the program lasted (according to Fred Hutchinson's version). Memorial Arena commissioner and gentleman without portfolio in sport in general, Davey called on his fellow mouthpieces to cough up a retainer or two in aid of the fund.

He declined to throw himself at the mercy of the court though prompted concerning his colleagues on the bench.

The real estate executive was "Colonel" Russell Ker. A present stockholder, the Colonel left the impression that if he could put the pressure on his clientele as he did on his cohorts dealing in land there wouldn't be a vacant lot in Victoria or district.

The newspaper publisher was Stuart Keate of the Times who, with eyes half-closed from lack of rest (he hopped off a plane after a business trip) was advisedly called the "most wide-awake man in Victoria" at 12:45 a.m. by program emcee Ed Farey.

The hockey manager was Fred Hutchinson, also a self-confessed individual, and former baseball business executive, who likened himself and Keate to "alleged ex-sport writers who were always trying to run a ball club in such capacity." Hutch put the finger on the studio guests for $250 before he himself aired his views on baseball in general.

The baseball veteran was the only real baseball "sweet" in these parts—Bob Brown of the Vancouver Caplanos. Fifty-two years in the game is Bob's record as he admits to nudging his 76th year.

The show, handled by Farey and Keate, got away at 9:05 or thereabouts and was still going at 1:30 a.m. with slightly less than $1,000-an-hour as the result.

Brown, who this year was honored by the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues for his better than half-century in the game, told stories as he exhorted Victorians to "keep baseball."

The historic gem was the tale about the time Bob, who never gave or asked any quarter when he was playing ball, broke an umpire's watch. At least, the umpire was taking possession of the watch when Bob blew his cork.

It seems that Bob had riled an umpire named Pearl Casey so much in one particular game that Casey gave him two minutes to get-out of the contest.

But Bob knew that Casey didn't have a timepiece and in his Irish stubbornness kept asking Casey "how much time now?"

Casey, meantime, was attempting to beg, borrow or steal a watch from two sportswriters (who like most sportswriters didn't own watches) with no success.

However, there was sitting in the stands one—Alex Rose, the well-known Seattle golf writer, who died recently. Rose was only too willing to assist in "ruby Robert's" departure and offered Casey his Ingersoll.

But in attempting to drop the watch into Casey's hands from the stands, he reckoned without Brown, who by now was hopping mad, especially over the intrusion.

Brown grabbed the watch, which he described as a good watch before he threw it—and slammed it against the stands. The climax came at a future game with Casey again umpiring. Brown presented the arbiter—not Rose—with a new watch.

Brown's parting shot as he left for the midnight boat was: "We're rarin' to go, and we want you (Victoria) in the league." He also reiterated that the Caplanos were willing to turn over their share of the gate receipts of the second game here between the clubs.

With a little promotion, it could be a $5,000 proposition for Victoria," he said.

And before he departed Brown recalled a few of the names that helped make baseball history for Victoria.

Old timers will recall the likes of Hal Chase, the incomparable who went to the majors seeing action with at least three clubs; first baseman George Kelly, who made New York Giants his future baseball home; shortstop Johnny Mowbray, who also went to the Giants; Victoria's own Bobby Steele, a pitcher with St. Louis Cardinals; and last but not least, Gil McDougald, who in two short seasons bridged the gap between the A's of the W.I.L.L. and selection as the American League rookie of the year this past season.

To say that many listeners were embarrassed at their end of the program would be putting it mildly. When Ker, Davey and Keate began to discuss business associates who had neglected to send in their contributions, the station engineer had to do some rapid manipulations of dials to keep the tubes intact.

The telephone response was generous, because of, or in spite of the bars, it matters not; and all present at the jamboree agreed that future baseball teams will have the full support of the community because it is the little guy and his wife who kept the switchboard buzzing.

And it was Lola Gordon and Ruby Pilline who almost wore their shoes out bringing in reports to the studio.

Three statisticians were kept busy tabulating totals and monitoring dispatches for the special radio-equipped cars.

These cars, through the courtesy of the Booster Club and the Western Heights Club, toured all districts of Greater Victoria, receiving directions through Farey as to where to collect the pledges and contributions as they rolled in.

It was truly a community effort evidenced to the utmost by the generosity of the radio listeners, most of all, the little guy, doing his bit, however small, to keep alive the sport that lost now, is likely never to be regained, in this generation at least.

8 Victoria Daily Times FRIDAY, FEB. 1, 1952

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

It took Clarence V. McConnell (Victoria Sporting Goods) 40 years of angling before he could give the questioning fishing public the "appropriate" answer on how to catch a big one at Saanich Inlet.

And the reason is that Mac only made the big-time ranks last year.

It is an established fact, however, that there are more hunters and fishermen and more fishing and hunting gear used than all the other sports put together. McConnell told the gathering. He told of hearing over a U.S. radio station of his prize-winning catch.

Life memberships were awarded McConnell, veteran V.S.I.A. and Chinook Club official Tommy Ward and Capt. A. C. Crutchley.

The meeting gave Harry Woolston, Solarium derby committee chairman for 1952 a big hand for topping all previous marks in being able to turn over a cheque for more than $2,500 in the crippled kiddies derby last year.

The Victoria Times, co-sponsors, got a pat on the back for its all-out support.

New Membership Encouraging

Many of the veterans of the 20-year-old angling club (yes, this is the 20th anniversary year) were glad to see so many new faces in a crowd of 200 at the meeting.

"I feel like a stranger," Dave Gray told the crowd. A good 75 per cent were new members "and that shows a keener interest in the club," he added.

The directors will be meeting shortly to pick up the 1952 ladder derby committee. They may also decide at that time what prize list will be at stake for the angling clan.

Views Strong On Grilse Issue

Secretary George Douglas reported the club emerged with only $177 in cash in the bank. The meeting, however, voted that the executive be allowed to cash $1,000 of the $2,100 they have in bonds as working capital and to be "used within reason."

The meeting was strong against any move to prohibit sportsmen from taking grilse under 16 inches.

Saanich Inlet winter grilse—the biggest of the year—are rare at 16 inches or over. For instance, last Sunday Tiny Richards and partner took 15 down toward McKenzie Bay, the biggest just 16 inches. Capt. Crutchley's 10 had one that might have been the 16-inch measure.

Stan Williams couldn't see why there should be any restriction placed on grilse fishing for the sporting ranks.

"Heck, biologists tell me that only about 10 per cent of the grilse hordes reach maturity," he said.

Winky Robinson figured that the only way one could keep grilse under 16 inches off the hook was "to write them a letter to warn them to stay away."

Another member was of the firm opinion that any undersize fish caught and then released stood a poor chance of surviving.

District Soccer Side Named For Benefit Tilt.

After lengthy deliberation, the Victoria and District Football Association's all-star team was chosen at a meeting of league executives and managers Thursday night.

The select team will meet Victoria United at Athletic Park Feb. 9 in a benefit game for the injured players' fund and Cliff Robbins.

Legion, undefeated winners of the first half, had the honor of gaining most of the all-star berths, placing four players on the roster. Victoria West and Civil Service gained three positions each, Heaney's and Esquimalt two each, and Alcos and Duncan one each.

John Moss was selected to start in goal for the dream team with Doug Day listed as spare. Fullbacks are Doug Hudlin and Bill Bamford while Red McMillan, Tommy Fallon and Ron Woodcock form the halfback line. All-star centre-forward is George Brown flanked by Bill Walker and Bob Allen with Jim Rice and Bill Thomas at outside slots.

Day, Ken Cruce, Stan Wise-

The Irish Dig Down Deep

Popular vice-president of the Victoria Shamrocks, Alex MacDonald (right) shelved rank and diplomacy Thursday in the name of baseball. One of the many canvassers who willingly gave of their time to collect donations, Alex put the finger on Andy Ovcharik, president of the Rocks. Seeing the familiar green and white sweater and completely sold by Alex' sales talk, it did not take long for Andy to dig down and add to the growing fund. Alex, a B.C. Electric bus driver, was given time off by that company to aid in the "Save Baseball" drive.

Totems, Bays Score In Prep Hoop League

Two games in the Senior Boys' Inter-High Basketball League on Thursday gave Vic High Totems their second win and Oak Bay their first.

Playing against Mount Douglas, Laurie Vietch piled in 32 points to pace Oak Bay to a 68-36 victory.

Meanwhile at Esquimalt the Totems eked out a narrow 19-17 triumph. Definitely not playing up to par, Totems led 6-3 at the quarter and 18-10 at the half.

Esquimalt took the game in hand, racking up seven points, while the Totems could only manage one. Chungnam was high man for Esquimalt.

At Oak Bay, the Bays turned in a much-improved game after their trouncing last week at the hands of Mount View.

Seemingly uncanny with their shots, Bays built up a four-point lead in the first quarter and 23-18 at the half.

Al Thomson took honors for Mount Douglas with 10 points.

Totems—Anderson 5, Jahraus 4, Shields 3, Abbott, Zarry, Kitchner, Pederson, Hodges 2, Drontson, Oakley 2, Total 19.

Esquimalt—Hunter 1, Jones 4, B. Bennett, Cunningham 4, Doble 4, Shergid 2, Smith, C. Bennett, Nix, Silcox, Total 17.

PATTERSON'S RESIGNATION REQUESTED

Resignation of general manager Reg Patterson of the Victoria Athletics was requested at a shareholders' meeting of the club Thursday.

The resolution calls for Patterson to tender his resignation by 12 noon the day of the next annual general meeting of the stockholders.

Only a small minority of the 319 stockholders were present. No date was set for the annual meeting.

GRID PRACTISE

Oak Bay Goblins Canadian football team will hold a practice at Windsor Park Sunday, starting at 12.

Pats Regain Lead

Regina Pats Thursday night moved back into the lead in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League, one point ahead of Lethbridge Native Sons.

Pats gained the single point when they fought back for a 4-4 overtime stalemate with fourth-place Calgary Buffaloes in a rugged contest before 2,000 fans at Regina.

Humber Overjoyed With Appointment

Competitor To Coach In 16 Years, Bruce's Record

By DENNY BOYD

Honor came to this city early Friday morning. It came to the city in general but in particular to a man whose name will never be forgotten in Canadian athletic circles—Bruce Humber.

Bruce was informed shortly after midnight that he had been chosen to coach Canada's Olympic track and field team in Helsinki in July.

"It's a tremendous thrill," he said. "The greatest thing that ever happened to me. And it was so sudden. I just couldn't sleep after I found out. I sat around thinking about what a job we have to do in a short time. I want to do that job to justify the faith that Canada has shown in me."

The honor is doubly great for Humber, who has risen from an Olympic runner to Olympic coach in 16 years. He was a sprinter with Canada's team in the 1936 Olympics.

Contacted this morning, two-time Olympic coach Archie McKinnon was beside himself with joy to see that his protégé has attained the highest pinnacle in the world of sports.

"I'm the happiest guy in the world next to Bruce," said McKinnon, hardly able to contain himself.

"I've dreamed of the day that Bruce would make it, and it has been one of my life's ambitions to see one of my kids do it. It's just like getting married and going on a honeymoon. You just think of it—a little wee town like this in the huge geographical scope of Canada and we have had someone on the Canadian Olympic team every time since 1920. I don't think many Victorians realize just how wonderfully we have done."

"You know, in this Olympic business, a lot of the people who are selected just go into it with the idea of self-elevation. But not Bruce. The kid has worked like a Trojan. He has been unselfish, always learning, always trying to better himself. And now every dream he ever had has come true. I'm so darned thrilled I don't know what to do."

After the provincial zone trials in early June, all provincial winners will attend the final selecting grounds in Hamilton, June 27 and 28.

There the team candidates must go through the gruelling eliminations set by the Olympic committee. Standards at this year's final trials will be the most rigorous since Canada first entered a team as they are computed on average marks set in actual Olympic competitions.

CITY PROSPECT
Victoria's hopes will hinge on the performances of Bill Parnell, holder of Canadian records in the 800 metres, the 880 and the indoor mile; Bob Hutchinson who

PILL BITTER FOR EASTERNERS TO SWALLOW

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (CP)—Coaches and officials of Toronto and district track and field clubs today greeted with mixed feelings the selection of Bruce Humber as coach of Canada's Olympic team.

They all praised Humber's ability but were critical that the honor had not gone to an Eastern coach, particularly since Humber was coach of Canada's British Empire Games team.

Most expressed disappointment that Lloyd Percival, director of Sports College, had not been chosen. Percival, himself, said: "Naturally, I'm disappointed. However, I hear Humber is a nice fellow and I wish him luck."

Bruce Foot, coach of the East York Club, exclaimed: "Not Humber again! Oh, no! The Olympic committee must think we're a lot of incompetents..."

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 1 (UP)—The Canadian Olympic figure skating team arrived here Thursday by plane and made plans for a drill Saturday at Bislet Stadium, site of the Olympics, to "get the feel of the ice."

THEATRE GUILD'S PLAYERS PRAISED

Cast And Technical Crew Brought Honor To City, Says President Henry Stubbings

Official welcome to the cast and technical crew of the winners of the British Columbia Regional competition of the Dominion Drama Festival, was one of the principal items on the agenda of the Victoria Theatre Guild's general meeting, held Thursday at the Langham Court Theatre.

The president, Henry Stubbings, introduced the cast and crew of "The Heiress," and on behalf of the Guild congratulated them on bringing honor to themselves, the association and the city of Victoria.

Audrey Johnson, the director, replied, giving a brief description of the successful trip to Vancouver. She praised the co-operation of the Vancouver committees and the fine spirit that had been displayed by the competing Mainland groups.

Warm tribute was paid to the crew who were responsible for the backstage work, and particularly to Maurice Johnson, who had organized the whole venture from start to finish.

Several amendments to the constitution had been prepared and were moved by A. B. Russ. These with one or two qualifications, were adopted.

SATISFACTORY FINANCES

A satisfactory financial report was given by R. V. James, chairman of the finance committee. Membership chairman, Mrs. Pat Fairweather, presented a brief report for her committee, and Mrs. Johnson gave the production committee resume.

During the latter, reasons for delayed production dates were given and for the omission of the scheduled children's play, "The Luck Child." It was announced that one or two entries will be made in the Victoria Drama Festival in April, and that the forthcoming production of "The Philadelphia Story," directed by Barbara Smythe, will open at the theatre on Feb. 16.

Arthur Barker, who is directing the March production, "Kind Lady," announced that his cast was not quite complete, but he expected to begin rehearsals next week.

DIRECTOR WANTS HELP

A letter from the technical director, Maurice Johnson, was read, stating that too much of the backstage work was devolving upon too few members, and stressing the need for greater co-operation in this department.

At the close of the meeting, two films made by the National Film Board were shown by courtesy of H. S. Hurn and the community drama office of the Department of Education.

Standing silent tribute was paid by the members to the memory of the late Leslie Lamb, former production manager and honorary life member of the organization. Lamb was a leader in the development of the present theatre at Langham Court.

'Y' Installs New Kiln For Firing Pottery

A new kiln for firing pottery has been installed at the Y.M.C.A. to be used by its pottery classes. The kiln, which has a large capacity and fires to 2,000 degrees, was constructed by Victorians Lloyd Sinclair and Ed Savannah.

New electrical wiring with more than double the former carrying capacity had to be installed.

Webb In Trouble

Bill Lundigan glowers at Clifton Webb, with nothing but Margalo Gillmore between them, in a scene from "Elopement," Twentieth Century-Fox comedy now at the Dominion Theatre.

MONTREALERS THRILLED

Canadian National Ballet Plays Before Packed House

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (CP)—An appreciative audience Thursday night acclaimed the first Montreal performance of the Canadian National Ballet Company, as one of the finest ever seen here.

As the first-nighters streamed out of the theatre after the final curtain fell, a common comment was, "I never thought it could be done here."

The company, under the direction of Miss Celia Franca, performed Les Sylphides, the dance of Salome and the Nutcracker Suite to a packed house.

Easily the most popular dance, to judge from audience reaction, was Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite. A child's Christmas dream, the suite was set against a peppermint-candy backdrop. The sparkling colors, the delicate dancing of the fairy chorus, the hilarious comedy of the danse Chinoise, the mystery of the East in the danse Arabe made one patron comment, "What a wonderful place to bring a child."

The antics of Robert Ito of Vancouver and Grant Strate of Carleton Place, in the danse Chinoise brought hearty laughter from the audience.

The danse Arabe, as performed by Natalia Butko of Toronto, had all the excitement and mystery a child associates with the land of desert sands and camel caravans.

Cantor's Birthday Party Rich Success

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Eddie Cantor's 60th birthday party Thursday night was a $2,616,000 affair. More than 3,900 guests pledged to buy that amount of Israel bonds to honor Cantor, star of stage, screen and television. To get in to the Hotel Commodore dinner, each guest had to pledge to buy at least a $1,000 bond.

Young Canadian Soprano To Sing With Symphony

The Victoria Symphony Orchestra concert next Monday night will be devoted entirely to the works of Debussy and Mozart.

Guest artist Lois Marshall, young Canadian soprano who made her debut at Toronto in 1950, has chosen Mozart's beautiful Motet, "Exultate, Jubilate," for her first selection and after intermission will sing an aria from "L'Enfant Prodigue," by Debussy.

The Monday concert will mark the 160th anniversary of Mozart's death.

Other orchestral works to be heard at the concert will be Mozart's "Symphony in G Minor" and Debussy's "Afternoon of a Fawn," featuring flautist Maurice Crawford.

Miss Marshall arrives here Saturday night, will rehearse with the orchestra Sunday morning and plans to sing for the students of Victoria College, Normal and high schools at their afternoon concert the same day.

Ingrid Bergman Expecting In June

ROME, Feb. 1 (AP)—Ingrid Bergman said today she and her film-director husband, Roberto Rossellini, "are expecting another baby in June."

She said the expected birth of the child has not caused her to break any plans for making moving pictures.

The child will be her third. She bore Rossellini their first child, a son, Feb. 2, 1950.

She has an older daughter by her first marriage to Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

DONCASTER, Eng. (CP)—Eight-year-old Billy Lacey hopes he will be home for next Christmas; he missed the last one. In 1949 his eye was wounded by a toy arrow; in 1950 a roof slate fell on his head, and last Christmas a dog bit off the end of his nose.

Locomotive Carrier, Long Absent, Docks Here Under New Name

The waterfront welcomed an old friend back home under a new name this morning when Ss. Peter Dal 11 warped alongside Ogden Point docks.

After an absence of three years, the heavy-lift ship, rigged with two 120-ton cranes, was brought into port by a captain and three deck officers who made many friends here in the past when their ship was known as Empire Byng.

At that time, she was owned by the British Ministry of Transport, and operated by Dalhousie Steam & Motorship Co., London. Dalhousie bought the ship a few months ago, and changed her name.

She has been on the U.K.-S. Africa run for the past three years, doing the job she was built for—carrying locomotives and other heavy machinery. She was Greenock-built in 1945, to transport tanks—hence the unusually powerful derricks.

Her master, Capt. S. B. Davis, is renewing old friendships in Victoria. So are three deck officers: Chief Engineer, James J. Tracy, Second Engineer J. Sutherland, and Third Officer R. B. Jones.

A former third officer, Danny Callan, is now with the C.P.R.'s coast service, which forces the machinery (turbo-electric) aft. The ships were designed to carry a deckload of locomotives, tanks, or railway cars, and a sister ship to Peter Dal during the war once carried 21 railway cars and five locomotives on deck.

Despite her unusual design, and the stubby, massive derrick posts, her cruiser stern and raking bow and generally good proportions please the sea-going eye.

Peter Dal is taking on 600,000 feet of lumber here, and will port off at Crofton, Chemainus and Port Alberni for U.K. She will likely be at Ogden Point until noon Sunday.

The 7,843-ton ship is one of six built for the ministry of transport between 1945 and 1947, by Vickers Armstrong and Greenock Dockyard. She is 451 feet long with a beam of 67 feet, a short forward well, and very long after well,

Hunting And Fishing License Fees Raised

Fishermen Also Will Pay Higher Price; Funds To Be Used For Game Conservation

Hunting and fishing license fees were increased today by provincial order-in-council. Action follows enactment of legislation at the last session of the B.C. House providing for the setting aside of larger amounts from game fees for conservation work.

When they go into the woods and apply the seals to their kills as soon as they dress the carcasses.

NO EXCUSES

Jan. Snows Just Normal Records Show

Victorians who suffered snow, sleet, freezing weather and slippery roads in January will be disappointed to learn that last month was quite ordinary after all. Reduced to little black numbers on the records by weatherman William Mackie, even the snowfall, although 5.2 inches more than normal, added only .98 inch to the total precipitation, which at 3.12 inches was still 1.13 less than usual.

To determine actual water content of snow the weatherman divides the total snowfall by 10, and adds the result to the rain total.

Maximum temperature was 52 degrees Jan. 27, and minimum was 21 on New Year's Day. Sunshine totalled only 42 hours, instead of the monthly average of 71.

EFFECTIVE APRIL 1

The new rates go into effect April 1.

An ordinary firearms license is required of persons hunting wild fowl, deer or black bears. The general firearms license covers all these things plus big-game animals.

The cabinet also increased the price of game tags. From now on, a 50-cent fee will be charged for deer seals and a $2 fee for seals that must be attached to moose, elk and mountain goats.

Under the old rate set-up, deer tags cost only 25 cents each and big-game tags, $1.

The Game Act covering the shooting of wildlife demands that hunters carry the tags with them

STANDARD SCHOOL PLANS ADVOCATED

Skills Wants Simplification Throughout B.C.; Would Cut Building Costs, He Claims

Standardization of school plans throughout British Columbia to help cut building costs was urged by Ald. Waldo Skillings at City Council's committee today.

He said "over 50 per cent of the S. J. Willis school floor area" was for items other than classrooms, which he termed "too extravagant" for this province.

Discussion arose on question of delegates to a special U.B.C.M. meeting on education costs. The committee will recommend that Victoria be represented.

Skills did not favor schools of reinforced steel and concrete, stating stucco and frame buildings were adequate.

"South Park school is 60 years old and we just finished paying for it last year," he said.

School buildings erected to last 100 years frequently did not serve full usefulness because of changing population trends, Skills said.

He felt the provincial government architect could design standard schools, with two areas in mind, coast and interior.

Pioneer Resident Dies At 80 Years

Mrs. Emma Jones, pioneer resident of Victoria, died at St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday at her 80th year.

Born in Victoria, she was the widow of Col. Arthur William Jones, well-known in the real estate and insurance business here. Her late residence was 1160 Rockland Avenue.

Mrs. Jones is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Hermann M. Robertson and Mrs. C. J. Prior, both of Victoria; Mrs. Dolly Rogers of Bath, England; and a brother, C. Leown, Vancouver.

Private funeral services will be held at Hayward's Chapel Monday, conducted by Rev. William Hills. Cremation will follow at Royal Oak Cemetery.

Veteran Of B.C. Forestry Bob St. Clair To Retire

Kenney Says Forest Service Reorganization Scheduled To Meet Increased Work Volume

R. C. "Bob" St. Clair, B.C.'s assistant chief forester, retires Saturday after 34 years with the provincial government.

Forester Minister E. T. Kenney gave word of his retirement today and at the same time announced the Forest Service was being revamped in order to meet an increased volume of work.

"In order to meet the demands of present-day expansion in our forest problems and forest industries," Kenney said, "the responsibilities formerly shouldered by the one assistant chief forester will be divided between two officers."

The minister announced F. S. McKinnon, present forester in charge of the management division, would take over as head of the newly-established technical services and E. W. Bassett, now district forester in the Vancouver district, would head administrative services.

Succeeding McKinnon as head of the management division will be John S. Stokes, a native Victorian who first entered the employ of the Forest Service in the summer of 1936, while at U.B.C. W. G. Hughes will take charge of the sustained yield program under the new arrangement.

Mayor Pledges Fullest Value To Taxpayers

The Victoria taxpayer is the No. 1 concern of Mayor Claude Harrison.

He told a Kinsmen Club dinner at the Pacific Club Thursday that a city was only as well off as the people who live in it.

"Our principle therefore, is to give the citizens value for their money," said Mayor Harrison as he explained his reasons for certain definite plans he has outlined for the city's development.

Referring to the present municipal government he contended that reports of unrest at City Hall were exaggerated, adding that there were one or two "who are not happy because things aren't working out the way they expected."

The mayor stated he wanted to give the citizens a staff which was not "overloaded." He said he had no animosity toward the city manager so long as he carried out his job.

"If you go in there to try to put things right so the taxpayers get their just due, you get sniped at," said the mayor as he referred to an "enormous amount of jumping at conclusions" by the public, since he took office.

Victim's Body Missing, Murder Hearing Starts

Alexander William Gould, a Newfoundland sailor, faced preliminary hearing on a charge of murder here today.

Stockily-built Williams, aged 25, is alleged to have taken the life of a fellow employee on the C.P.R.'s Ss. Princess Joan, Dong Chew Yin, 20, also known as Ten Chai Ean, recent arrival in Canada from China.

The allegation of police is that Williams murdered Dong while the ship was steaming from Vancouver to Victoria during the night of Jan. 15.

Hearing is before Magistrate A. I. Thomas, Joseph McKenna, K.C., acting for the Crown, and Lloyd G. McKenzie, counsel for the accused.

Only a few of the 25-odd Crown witnesses were heard this morning. The hearing is continuing.

Williams was employed as an engine-room wiper on the Joan, the youthful Chinese as a mess boy.

BODY NOT FOUND

This is one of the most unique murder trials in B.C. criminal records in the last quarter century as the body of the victim has not been found.

Police searched the strait's waters for more than a week but were unable to find any trace of Dong's body.

When the case goes before the Assize court Constable Joseph Shepherd's statements and observations will likely be strongly challenged by counsel McKenna, it was indicated.

The constable said that when he entered a stateroom where Williams was apparently asleep in a bunk, the accused made certain statements when Shepherd asked, "What have you done with your Chinese friend?"

McKenna and the magistrate joined McKenna in asking the press not to use an observation by Const. Shepherd as to Williams' sobriety on entering the cabin.

"I ask this because there is strong doubt as to admissibility of such an observation," said defense counsel.

PATHOLOGIST TESTIFIES

Dr. Ross McNeely, pathologist, said he examined bed clothing and accused's clothing for blood and other things. He had also examined a sample of Williams' blood and found it to be group "O".

On a sheet from a bunk in the stateroom, Dr. McNeely said he examined bloodstains and found them to be of group "B".

Under questioning, witness said it was possible to make examination for blood grouping of stains up to six months old.

Wyatt Asks Expense Issue Be Dropped

City Manager Cecil Wyatt said today a finance committee recommendation that he be paid $250 expenses in connection with a recent bond sale in the east is "dropped" as far as he is concerned.

The committee which met today was told by Ald. William Pinfold, chairman, that a legal obstacle which the committee could not overcome prevented payment. The expense had been authorized by council, not just the committee, he said.

"As far as I'm concerned it's not right," said Pinfold, suggesting that $50, the limit which the committee can authorize on its own, be paid.

Wyatt stated: "Of course you gentlemen realize I didn't ask for it and I didn't initiate it. As far as I am concerned it's going to drop."

Ald. Bren Murdoch requested that an expense account be submitted and payment made.

MODEL RAILWAY CRAZE IS HERE SAYS TIMES MAGAZINE WRITER

"Have you got a model railway in your home?" Victoria is in the grip of a craze which is sweeping the world, with whole families interested. How businessmen hobbyists have built up the Western Modern Railway Club in Victoria and how young amateurs are developing their miniature railways is the subject of an article in the Times Magazine section Saturday.

Solly gives more timely information to gardeners. The fantastic story of Milton Berle's flop in radio to rise to the top of television is told.

A new deal for Canadian authors is discussed on the book pages.

A checker problem and a test of wits for those who like to place themselves in the role of detectives have been added to the crossword pages.

SHE'S A SOURDOUGH

'Candy' Flies From Yukon On Series Of Adventures

By ELIZABETH FORBES

New experiences are coming thick and fast to Candace Ellen Bissell—"Candy" for short—who flew out from Whitehorse, Y.T., with her mother, Mrs. Daryl Bissell, three weeks ago for a visit with her grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Drysdale, of this city.

It was the first time she had flown and when the plane got up above the clouds, which to Candy looked much like the deep snow she is used to seeing all winter long, she was sure they were "not going anywhere."

Thursday, complete with fur coat, fur boots and a warm wool felt hat with attached ear muffs, seven-and-one-half-year-old Candy came to the Times to see how a newspaper is published, and while she waited for the grown-ups to get organized she worked at her favorite past-time—spool knitting.

On Sunday she leaves again with her mother for Seattle from where she will fly home to the north country.

PLENTY OF COAL, BUT NO FIRE

Choko's Boilers Can't Be Flashed Though Holds Full Of Fuel Cargo

By MONTE ROBERTS

Householders who have trouble getting the furnace to draw can spare a sympathetic tear for Capt. A. R. Phelps, master of Ss. Choko.

His ship's boilers are starving in the midst of plenty—for she is loaded to the marks with coal, yet her fires won't burn.

Or putting it more accurately, Choko is having combustion trouble.

Today she lies in Royal Roads while J. Smart, combustion engineer with Canadian Collieries, wrestles with the problem. Choko was bound for from Norfolk, Va., with coal for Japan, and two days ago put into Nanaimo for bunkers. Trouble developed on the way down coast, and she was compelled to lie in there.

When they locate the trouble, she'll steam up and down the straits a couple of times to make sure everything is okay before putting to sea.

Meanwhile, as a waterfront wag put it, Choko is all Chokoed up.

Key Man In Pulp Industry David G. Stenstrom Passes

David G. Stenstrom, 65, one of the best-known figures in the B.C. pulp and paper industry, died suddenly Thursday night at Royal Jubilee Hospital after suffering indifferent health for several months.

Born in Stockholm, he came to Canada as a youth and joined the pulp and paper industry in 1914 at Ocean Falls. By 1929 he was general manager of Pacific Mills Ltd., and in 1935 and 1938 established pulp mills in Australia and Tasmania.

In 1943 he was deputy newsprint administrator for Canada, and in 1947 joined the Celanese Corporation of America. He was a key figure in the company's $65,000,000 Arrow Lakes project as Castlegar.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Dr. Jack D. Stenstrom and James A. Stenstrom, Montreal; and two daughters, Mrs. Thomas MacKay, Vancouver, and Mary Louise, at home at 1025 Wolfe Street, Vancouver.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Seaman Dies While At Sea

C.G.Ss. Estevan is a sad ship today.

Her quartermaster, Harry Earl of Victoria, one of the most popular men aboard, collapsed while she was off Bamfield Thursday and died in hospital at Port Alberni at 10.30 last night.

Earl, who was 50, was going about his regular duties when stricken. Doctors believe death was due to heart failure.

He had been on Estevan as quartermaster steadily for some past six years, and was one of those rare men—a "natural" quartermaster. He is survived by his wife, who rushed to his bedside by taxi last evening. Estevan has been attempting to calibrate the direction finding station at Pachena Point, and has been hampered by poor visibility.

When Earl collapsed, Estevan's master, Capt. Harry Ormiston, ordered the ship to Port Alberni to obtain medical care.

City Shipyards Full, Says Howe

'No Use Handing Out Orders,' Minister Holds; Operators Agree But With Reservations

Victoria shipyards have "all they can handle" right now, according to Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe.

He said in Victoria Thursday night that "there is no use handing out orders to shipyards when they are going ahead with capacity operations now."

Local shipbuilders agree—with reservations. More work could be handled if a flow of materials could be assured, but shortage of steel and other strategic materials is the governing factor.

"We could lay more keels and build more ships if we could get the materials," W. S. Hamill, general manager of Victoria Machinery Depot, stated today. "We have the space, the available labor, and the yard facilities, but there is no point in laying keels if you don't know when you'll get the material to finish the job."

Minister Proud Of Production For Cold War

Howe Analytical In Address Here

In flat, unemotional tones, and with a minimum of rhetoric, Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe laid the facts of Canada's productive economy before a packed gathering of party followers in Liberal Headquarters here last night.

Canada's minister of trade and commerce and defense production was coldly analytical of industrial and economic activity in the "cold war," and was quietly proud of progress made in production and control of inflation.

"The tooling up period for armament is past now, and there is a good flow of munitions," he stated, citing examples in plane production, radar and fire control development.

But he pointed out that "Canada's war effort cannot be measured by munitions alone."

"We must have the materials that go with weapons, and accordingly we are stepping up production of scarce metals, such as tungsten, aluminum and iron ore," he said.

Strike Vote May Paralyze City Papers

For the first time in the nearly-century-old tradition of Victoria newspapers, a strike vote will be taken Saturday.

Thirteen members of Local 88 of the Stereotypers' Union (T.L.C.-A.F.L.) will take the vote, under government supervision, at the Douglas Street plant of Victoria Press Ltd.

Some 350 employees of the firm are affected. Suspension of both morning and evening dailies is threatened.

The company has accepted a conciliation board recommendation of 32-cents-an-hour increase, to $2.20 an hour. The union has rejected this award and is demanding the Vancouver rate of $2.25 an hour.

It is understood that the dispute has reached the international union level, with meetings scheduled for New York City.

SEATTLE VISITORS ABOARD THEIR YAWL

SHE LOOKS YOUNG FOR HER YEARS

Seattle Yacht Ushers In Cruise Season

The little-ship tourist season was officially opened Thursday evening when the Seattle yawl Uwhilna slipped into the inner harbor and moored at the landing stage.

With their wives they coasted up from Seattle Thursday in "perfect weather—but no breeze."

The gaff-headed yawl is one of the prettiest ships ever to grace the harbor. She was built in 1908, in Shanghai, from plans drawn by a New York designer.

She was built to last—and she looks more like a youngster of six than a mature lady of 43, dictates.

Her frame is of yakil wood (something like ironwood), her planking of teakwood, and her trim mahogany.

Her owners will "loaf around Victoria" for awhile, then take a leisurely cruise through the Gulf Islands, or wherever their fancy dictates.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Eavesdropping Can Lead To New Tips For Penny

By PENNY SAVER

Listened in on a conversation the other day? No! It is not something I'm in the habit of doing, but in this business you can get all kinds of information by "just happening" to make a mental note of what you hear.

It all started like this. I was riding along on the bus and heard a very disgruntled voice utter, "Gee, it's hazy in these buses. Why don't they air them out?"

Another voice answered in a somewhat disgusted tone, "Don't be crazy, it's clear as a bell in here."

"Don't you contradict me, I said it was darn hazy in here, and hazy it is," was the reply.

"Ah, you couldn't see beyond your nose anyway with those filthy glasses you're wearing. No wonder you think everything is clouded over. Why don't you clean those goggles?"

No Worries—They're Good Friends

Wow! That was the final straw. I'm afraid I can't print the rest of it, but it surely was a whopper of a conversation.

I was really getting excited at this point, I figured it would at least end with fists flying, but no!

They were good friends! And to make it even more disappointing, or from another point of view, interesting, the one that had been slamming back the remarks at the "fogged up" fellow, came up with a suggestion.

He mentioned some kind of tissue that would clean the glasses as easy as could be.

"Now I wonder what that could be," I asked myself. It wasn't hard to find out. I went to our corner drugstore and sure enough they knew just what I wanted.

It is a package of tissues that are neatly folded and to look at it you would almost think it was a match folder. They told me at the store that they really are marvelous. You just wipe them over the lenses in your glasses and they come sparkling clean.

Save a lot of arguments that way if you have a temperamental like the two characters on the bus.

The packages sell for 15 pennies or a special bundle of four packages for 39 cents.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Fine Line Close To Lashes Will Give The Eyes Glamor

Q. "I have been told that drawing a line around the eyes with an eyebrow pencil is very flattering. Is this true?"

A. A line drawn very close to the lashes of the upper lid and then blended upward, is most flattering. Do not draw it on the lower lid. Also, draw one line at the outer corners of your eyes, slanting upward like a lash. This should be very lightly done and will do pretty things for your eyes as a part of evening make-up.

Q. "One of my friends has legs as large as mine but hers are always look smaller. The other day I asked her why and she said, 'It is probably the color stockings you wear.' I wondered afterwards what she meant. Can you tell me?"

A. I imagine she meant that light stockings make the legs look larger while dark ones have the opposite effect. This really makes quite a difference. I do not mean that you should wear black hose but one of the browner, tanner, grayer tones rather than nude shades.

Q. "I have dark hair on my upper lip. Maybe I shouldn't mind but I am only 15 and don't seem to have enough poise to carry this off well. Can I do anything about it?"

A. Yes. If you have a light growth you may be able to bleach it with Peroxide so that it is not noticeable. Apply the peroxide and let it dry. Do this several times. If this doesn't work have the hair removed by electrolysis.

Q. "What can I do to make my nose look smaller?"

A. Use powder a shade darker on the nose than on the rest of the face, wear your hair fluffy at the forehead and about the ears, and extend the lip rouge around your mouth a bit.

Q. "Is it true that eating one's largest meal at night will cause one to gain weight?"

A. I think this can be classed as an old wives' tale. It doesn't matter when you eat your daily bread. But how much you eat is the important thing. You can divide your calories any way you like best. The only possible effect of eating the largest meal at night would be due to the fact that you are relaxed and might digest and assimilate it better, and also you might eat more because you have more time.

TODAY'S RECIPE

APPLESAUCE NUT CAKE

Two-thirds cup walnuts, 1/4 cup shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon cloves, 1 cup thick applesauce.

Chop walnuts. Cream shortening with sugar. Add unbeaten egg and beat thoroughly. Sift to creamed mixture alternately with applesauce. Stir in walnuts. Spread in two greased 8-inch layer cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Allow to cool 5 minutes, then turn out onto wire rack. Frost as desired when thoroughly cooled. Make one (8-inch) cake.

Plain wedges of head lettuce make a tasty salad, with this peppy dressing. Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise with 1/4 cup chopped, ripe olives, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese.

Start off a junior miss cook with this simple cookie recipe. Combine a package of semi-sweet chocolate "bits" with 2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk. Heat and stir over hot water until smooth. Then add a cup of chopped walnuts, a pinch of salt and a teaspoon vanilla. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto a greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven about 10 minutes.

Nothing like a hot dessert for a cold day. Drain a can of peach slices and place them in a shallow eight-inch baking dish. Cover with a crumbly mixture of 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup all-purpose flour, one teaspoon cinnamon and 1/4 cup butter or margarine. Bake in a moderately hot oven 35 minutes.

Stylishly Gowned For Long Tour

LONDON, Feb. 1 (CP).—Twenty gowns on their way to Australia to form part of the wardrobe of Princess Elizabeth's ladies-in-waiting will be something no fashion-conscious Australian woman will want to miss. For these designs combine the talents of two top-ranking designers—London's Worth and Paquin of Paris.

It would be almost impossible, however, to figure out which designer is responsible for such numbers as the garnet red afternoon dress of pure silk with full skirt, cap sleeves and draped, heart-shaped neckline, combined with matching coat of Lyons velvet. A floral design in garnet beading outlines the neck of the dress and picks out the pocket flaps on the hips.

The rich velvet coat lined by the silk of the dress has skirt fullness falling to the rear, leaving clean hiplines and, an almost straight front. The wide sleeves are cut in one with the bodice and deep revers finish in waist fastening.

Truly regal fullness forms the skirt of a primrose and grey tulle ball gown over primrose taffeta. A feathery cascade of wattle flowers in deep gold chenille spots and diamante beading falls from waist to hem down one side of the skirt and outlines the off-shoulder heart-shaped neckline.

GOWN OF BROCADE

Exquisite severity is the outstanding feature of a cream and gold brocade gown with full skirt falling in heavy folds from a pointed waistline. The bodice has wide, waist-deep revers sweeping upwards to from the cape finish to the off-shoulder neckline.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Try this nectar sauce over squares of warm gingerbread for a delicious winter dessert. Combine one cup apricot whole fruit nectar with 1/4 cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch and a few grains salt. Cook until thickened and blend in 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Chopped raisins and peanut butter mixed with a little honey make a sweet nutty sandwich filling. Children love it, so keep in mind for a quick and easy lunch. It's particularly good and very nutritious on whole wheat bread.

Nothing like a hot dessert for a cold day. Drain a can of peach slices and place them in a shallow eight-inch baking dish. Cover with a crumbly mixture of 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup all-purpose flour, one teaspoon cinnamon and 1/4 cup butter or margarine. Bake in a moderately hot oven 35 minutes.

A short dinner dress in two shades of sky blue organza has a draped, strapless bodice and full skirt. A twist of deep blue comes from one side of the waist, slots the dip of the neckline and floats down the opposite side of the skirt.

About Sprouts

Tender tasty Brussels sprouts are among the finest green vegetables available now. Dainty in size and in flavor too, they supply giant-sized amounts of vitamins and minerals. Buy them for looks, as you do other fresh vegetables. Fresh crisp appearance, bright color, and firm "tight" heads.

Trim off the stems and any wilted outer leaves, then cut a crosswise gash in the bottoms to hasten cooking. Drop in boiling salted water to cover, and cook quickly until just tender. You don't want them mushy, of course.

Sauces to glorify Brussels sprouts are many and varied. Melted butter is the quickest. But add lemon juice to the butter occasionally for a happy change. Or—brown the butter until "scorched" and pour over. If you're feeling very creative, Hollandaise is the ultra touch for sprouts. Here's a quick version that's smooth, fluffy, and easy:

EASY HOLLANDAISE

One-quarter pound butter, 3 egg yolks, 3 tbsps. lemon juice. Put ingredients in the top of a double boiler and let stand at room temperature for half an hour. Just before serving, place pan over boiling water for 1 1/2 minutes, stirring briskly and constantly. Serve at once.

Cheese sauce is not only delicious, but adds those extra milk nutrients. Or if you're not familiar with buttered crumbs, find out how much they can do for a good many vegetables.

BUTTERED CRUMBS WITH BACON

Saute 1 cup fine bread crumbs in 1/3 cup butter. Crumble in 2 slices of bacon, cooked until crisp. Toss with sprouts.

Get a company dinner off to a good start with this fruity appetizer. Place drained canned fruit cocktail in sherbet glasses and top with a scoop of pale green lime sherbet. It's pretty and tastes most refreshing.

Petticoat importance is shown in a full-skirted black faille afternoon dress worn over an underskirt of clover pink taffeta. The dress has cap sleeves, deep neckline and three-quarter-sleeve bolero.

A simple traveling dress in shadow-blue tussor silk, its three-quarter sleeve cut in one with the button-front bodice has white winged cuffs finished by a white bow. It is coupled with a coat of matching faille in plain princess lines.

Styles contributed by the designers range from a straight-skirted wool travel dress of ink blue to a garden-party frock of beige lace and blue taffeta. A seagreen chiffon evening dress with draped brailine has graceful, floating width to the skirt. The narrow belt and straps are embroidered with diamante.

Mrs. Brunson Is Active In Knee-Hi's School Tour

Knee-Hi has a mistress as well as a master.

With any display or production there is usually an interesting person behind the scenes.

Such is the case in connection with Knee-Hi, who, with her master, Dr. Brunson, has been making a tour of all the city schools teaching safety rules.

The person who plays the important behind-scenes role with them is Mrs. Mildred Brunson. She accompanies her husband on all his tours—not just for the trip—but to help him with his important work.

"I love my part in helping to teach young children the dangers of not obeying the safety rules," she says.

One of the main points she takes is to contact the principal of each school before Knee-Hi is scheduled to appear and arrange with him to have boys to take part on the program.

"As a rule we have three boys from grade six," she explained. "I tell them what they are to do with Knee-Hi. We have a rehearsal. That is usually fun, although I must admit that at times it takes quite a bit of patience."

Mrs. Brunson is a small vivacious woman. She moves quickly and with definite enthusiasm as she instructs the boys how they are to act when they go before their school with Knee-Hi.

Asked where she and her husband live, she replied, "Well, actually Washington, D.C., is our home, but we have only been able to get back there about three times in the last three years. It was only for a couple of weeks at a time, too."

Mrs. Brunson and her husband expect to return to their home for a while during the school vacation this summer and then they will start their tour again with their pet, Knee-Hi, who has become one of the best-known dogs on the continent.

FUNDS NEEDED

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 (CP)—During February and March the Undenominational Unitarian Service Committee of Canada will conduct a country-wide campaign for funds to continue its work among the needy children of Europe.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive director, has issued a statement appealing to Canadians to contribute to the call to help these children. They are the babies of the immediate post-war years now approaching the 10-14 year-old stage, "perhaps the most crucial stage of their lives."

"Hot Flashes" Stopped or strikingly relieved in tests by doctors!

* If you're miserable from the "hot flashes," and accompanying irritable, restless feelings of "change of life," you may be suffering unnecessarily! For, in tests by doctors, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief from such functionally-caused suffering—in case after case! Complete or striking relief.

Yes! Research has proved Lydia Pinkham's thoroughly modern action has shown you where to look for relief from those distressing, nervous "out of sorts" feelings of mid-life "change!" So get Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or new, improved Tablets. Both are grand, too, for functional pains and "weak" feelings of monthly periods.

It acts through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve distress of those awful "hot waves!"

Showers For Helena Derman

Mrs. F. L. Basanta and Mrs. L. Derman were hostesses at a shower in the Walter Avenue home of the latter in honor of Miss Helena Derman, February bride-elect.

The guest of honor was presented with a corsage of daffodils, and her mother, Mrs. A. Derman, received pink carnations. Sheila Derman and Victor Derman presented Miss Derman with gifts concealed in a box decorated in Valentine motif.

Guests were Mesdames L. Basanta, M. Pope, R. Pearce, W. O'Brien, A. Derman, A. Sangster, Rutich, Gleason, Misses Francis Harvey and Marcia Weston.

Mesdames Rutich, Basanta, Honcharuk and Yakimowich were hostesses at a shower recently in honor of Miss Derman. She was presented with a corsage of red roses and many gifts in a decorated basket. Susan Basanta and Leona Rutich presented the gifts.

Those attending were Mesdames Zlabro, Ratnuk, Komarnisky, Sewchuk, Moysesech, Gemesh, Honcharuk, Walters, Turega, Berezny, L. Derman, Kowalyk, Mitchuk, Yakimovich, Ustik, Bandrevik, W. Lapshinoff, A. Checko and Gleason.

Leaving Saturday On Extensive Trip

Many people plan, or just dream, of a trip to the British Isles or the continent. For three Victorians, left to right, Miss Nelle K. Wyles, Miss Irene Lovell and Miss Lillian Scarth, it is far more than just plans or a dream. They will sail from Crofton aboard the Laurentia Saturday morning for England via the Panama Canal. With London as their headquarters they will tour the British Isles and go across to the continent where they will visit in France, Denmark, Holland, Spain, Italy, Germany and Austria. It will be about a year before the three friends plan to return to this city.

Mrs. E. K. Boyd has returned to her home on Munro Street, following a six-month vacation in Glendale, Calif.

Rev. Frederick Stanford, Bishop of Cariboo, arrived in Victoria recently and will spend a few days at Young Island, Sidney, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mallory.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Woodhead of Victoria have been guests at Forbidden Plateau Lodge during the past week, also Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Donald Clark of Vancouver. Next week-end a party of 19 are going up to the Lodge from Port Alberni for the skiing.

After visiting relatives and friends in England during the past six months, Miss Bridget Burton returned Sunday to her home, 1909 Fernwood Road. While overseas, Miss Burton registered at British Columbia House in London.

Mrs. Daryl Bissell and her small daughter Candace, who have been in the city visiting Mrs. Bissell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Drysdale, will leave for Seattle on Sunday, from where they will fly, Monday morning, to Whitehorse, Y.T., where they live.

Miss Isabel Cummings of Ottawa, who has been spending the winter on the Pacific Coast, was in Victoria yesterday for a brief visit, staying at the Empress Hotel. She left this morning by train for Parksville, where she will stay for the month of February, a guest at Island Hall Hotel.

A Leap Year Tea

Members of the Chinese Catholic Mission, 825 North Park Street, are planning a leap year tea for this Sunday afternoon from 2.30 until 5, when it is hoped men will bring their wives and their friends. Special surprises are being arranged in keeping with the theme.

Meeting Entertained

Doreen Bickford, Lois Holloway, Gloria Lomas and Jeanette MacDonald entertained with songs at the recent meeting of West Saanich School Red Cross. Jeanette Jubb and Jeanette MacDonald also did two dances. P. Lomas gave a talk and showed articles from Korea.

Women's Auxiliary to Veterans' Hospital, Monday at 2, at the hospital. . . . Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, K. of P. Hall, Monday at 8.

Need For Volunteers Discussed

Sixty-four members and friends were present at the supper meeting of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, this week, in the new clubroom, 904 Government Street.

A panel discussion was held on the scope for volunteer workers in the welfare field in Victoria. R. L. Bialuski, executive secretary of the Welfare Council and the Community Chest, outlined the need for more volunteers, to work closely with trained personnel.

Mrs. Elsie Shepherd described the organization and work of the Volunteer Bureau in Winnipeg. Keith McDonald, health educator in the area, acted as chairman. A lively question-period followed.

Announcement was made of "The Challenge" a pageant showing how women got the vote, to be presented by the club on Feb. 14 and 15 in the clubroom. The public may attend.

Mrs. Bessie Smith is directing the pageant, Miss Mary Cliff is in charge of business arrangements and Mrs. Marguerite Laughlin, the tickets, which may be obtained from any member or from Minnie Beveridge Millinery.

The club will hold a rummage sale in the Market Place on March 8.

Donation—At a recent meeting of Island Temple No. 8, Pythian Sisters, $30 was voted to the local Shower of Dimes. Mrs. Beatrice Marshall presided and a letter was received from Supreme Chief Cleone Hogan asking Pythian Sister Temples to support March of Dimes campaign in Canada and United States. Entertainment committee is arranging a Valentine program for next meeting.

City Police
Getting Light
New Uniforms

Police officers this summer will not have to "grim it out" in heavy uniforms as in the past. The meeting of the police commission Thursday afternoon was in sympathy with the police union on this phase of their negotiations for a new contract.

Plan is to provide officers with a light uniform for the hot months. A summer uniform will be issued every other year, the heavy uniform issued similarly.

"We won't be out of pocket and yet the men who do our policing will be more comfortable on the job for their year-around duties," said Commissioner Brent Murdoch.

The union request that repairs to personal property damaged on duty, such as watches, be paid for by the commission was approved.

"It's only fair," said Mayor C. L. Harrison.

Four Drivers
Pay Saanich
Court Fines

Four motorists were fined a total of $165 for driving infractions Thursday in city and Saanich police courts.

Herbert M. Spence, 1177 Old Esquimalt, was fined $40 when he pleaded guilty in city court to dangerous driving. His license was suspended for one month. Spence's car was in collision with another in which Don Kinney, 1452 Vining, suffered injuries Jan. 19 on Johnson Street Extension.

It cost James McMillan $50 for driving a car while his license was suspended. He pleaded guilty in city court.

In Saanich court, Stanley Cleomoff, 2814 Rockwell, was fined $35 for careless driving. Charge arose from a Jan. 12 traffic accident at Glanford and Carey Roads.

Joseph R. Planes, Milnes Landing, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $40. Charge arose from a recent View Douglas collision. His license was ordered suspended by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Peter Fuhr, no fixed address, was given a one-year suspended sentence in Saanich court for forgery. He was ordered to post a bond of $500 to be of good behavior for the suspension period.

Dowell's Lead
Paddle League

Dowell's Cartage moved into undisputed possession of first place in the junior league of the Victoria Table Tennis Association this week, with its 33-17 victory over the cellar-dwelling B.C. Airlines.

Jubilee Cabs defeated Morgan & Tucker, 30-20, to move into a second-place tie with the gasmen. Outstanding player of the evening was Wayne Chew, of B.C. Airlines, with 10 wins and no losses.

and Machinery

Examinations for Inspector of Steam-Boilers and Machinery will be held at the office of the Chief Inspector of Boilers, 411 Dundas Street, Vancouver, B.C., commencing March 10, 1952, at 9 a.m.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from the Chief Inspector at the above address.

NOTICE

Examinations for the position of Assistant Forest Ranger will be held at the following centres at the dates and times indicated:

Tuesday, Feb. 26th, 9:00 a.m., Langford

Wednesday, Feb. 27th, 9:00 a.m., Nanaimo

Friday, Feb. 29th, 9:00 a.m., Campbell River

Monday, March 3rd, 9:00 a.m., U.S.C. (Room 815, New Wing, Library Bldg.)

Application forms and full particulars may be obtained from the District Forester, Marine Building, Vancouver, or the Forest Ranger's office at examination centres. Completed application forms should be forwarded to the District Forester by February 22nd, or failing this, to the examination centre at the time of the examination.

These examinations are being conducted to establish eligible lists for 1952 fire season employment. From such lists appointments to positions now vacant will be made according to candidates' standing in the examination.

Candidates must be citizens of one of the nations of the British Commonwealth, and must have resided in British Columbia for one year. The candidate must be physically capable of the work. Candidates must be 21 years of age.

No examination fee is charged.

Drop In Meat Price Predicted
As Increase In Supply Likely

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (CP)—

Meat packers were told Thursday that increased supplies of beef and pork products may be expected this year with a consequent easing in the family meat budgets.

A. G. Hall of Toronto said in a report that "a drop in beef prices would be healthy for the industry as it would mean increased beef consumption."

Earlier the 32nd annual convention of the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers heard a report from H. C. Leckie of Toronto, who forecast increased pork supplies and cheaper prices.

Mr. Hall said more than 500,000 fewer head of cattle and calves were marketed in 1951 than in 1950 but that in 1952 more beef will be up for sale.

"We must all be prepared for a sharp, but not disastrous, lowering of cattle prices," he said, "Canadians are eating less and less beef 'only because the prices were soaring too high.'"

Meerschmied pipes are made from a fine, white, clay-like material usually found in Asia Minor.

New Tax Hits Big Gamblers In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—

A revenue official said confidently Thursday the new federal gambling tax has choked off 90 per cent of the country's illegal gambling business, estimated by investigating senators at $20,000,000 a year.

Eugene Coyle, the revenue bureau's expert on the gambling tax, told reporters: "I don't know how long the honeymoon will last, but right now most of the big-time gamblers have closed shop."
